

DAIRY INDUSTRY IS DISCUSSED AT FARMERS' MEETING

Final Gathering of Series Is Held in Appleton Saturday Night

BY W. F. WINSEY

The last of the first series of dairy men's meetings in Outagamie county was held at the county court house here Saturday evening.

The second series will be held at the same central points in the county in November, and D. N. Geyer, manager of the Farmers' Pure Milk association of Chicago, will talk on organization for the whole milk and cream producers. H. T. Sondergaard, a creamery specialist of the college of agriculture, is to talk on causes and remedies of off-grade milk.

The third series will be held in December, and J. U. Rindorff, former manager of the Harvest farms, will discuss cow troubles and herd management, and A. J. Cramer of the college of agriculture, is to talk on feeds for dairy cattle.

The speakers at the meeting Saturday were County Agent R. A. Amundson, who planned the meetings, Theodore Sanders, Appleton dairy officer, and B. E. Billington, fieldman of the National Cheese Producers' Federation.

The dairy men's meetings were made up of milk producers, milk dealers and cheese makers. Acting at the suggestion of the county agent, the subjects presented at the local meeting will receive further consideration at meetings of Equity societies, granges, shipping associations, and Parent-Teacher associations.

The dairy men in attendance Saturday night will become leaders in the neighborhood meetings. In this way a large part of the milk producers of the county will be reached and given an opportunity to express opinions.

Mr. Amundson called attention to the centralization in business that is going on throughout the country and gave a number of well known illustrations.

"If the milk business in Wisconsin finally centralizes in one gigantic private concern, where will the Wisconsin milk producer come in?" inquired the speaker. "Unless the milk producers organize, they will be forced to market their products as individuals as they have in the past."

Mr. Sanders, dairy inspector for the Appleton board of health, said the purpose of the city's new pure milk ordinance is to obtain a supply of pure milk for the people of Appleton and to increase the consumption of milk and dairy products. The success of the innovation will mean a safeguard to health and a largely increased consumption of milk.

The pure milk requirements of the Appleton board of health are about the same as those of the Chicago board of health. Temperature tests are applied to milk, sediment tests, butter fat and bacterial content tests, and in case milk falls below certain standards inspections are made at the sources of supply and suggestions for improvements are made.

Mr. Billington at the opening of his talk said that he regretted the absence of E. L. Thomas of the Chicago board of health and that while he resented the encroachments of the whole milk trucks when they split up and divided cheese factory patronage, he heartily agreed with Mr. Thomas in recognizing the importance of the whole milk market to Wisconsin dairymen who are in the whole milk zones. He believed that in general milk dealers and condenser promoters came into cheese and butter sections looking for cheap milk, not expensive milk that they usually paid in cheese sections where cheese competition forced them to pay and in butter sections what butter competition forced them to pay. Sometimes when the cheese factories and creameries have disappeared, they pay even less than butter and cheese prices.

"Mr. Amundson's present and contemplated dairy meetings will certainly be of value to the dairymen of the county in establishing an intelligent foundation for future constructive thought and action," declared Mr. Billington.

"About everyone concedes at least that everything is not well with the farmer. We have numerous solutions offered among some of the most familiar of which are efficient production, quality production, efficient price fixing, cooperative marketing, legislation, tariff, standards, and regulations and going back to the simple farm life of old days."

Mr. Billington argued that the time had come to put the dairy industry on a four-legged stool with leg No. 1, Efficient production; leg No. 2, quality product; leg No. 3, cooperative marketing; and leg No. 4, organized effort to build up, regulate and protect a prosperous dairy industry.

After proposing the placing of the dairy industry on the stool Mr. Billington explained how each of the legs of the stool might be constructed.

LETTER GOLF

IT'S A GOOD RULE TO PAR. It's a GOOD RULE to par as many holes as possible in golf and letter golf. It's surprisingly easy to do that today. Par is five and one solution is on page 9.

G	O	O	D

THE RULES

- 1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW TO HEN in three strokes, COW HOW, HEW, HEN.
- 2—You can change only one letter at a time.
- 3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
- 4—The order of letters cannot be changed.

BELIEVE 17 DEAD IN FIRE AT PRISON

assumed charge of the situation until prison officials arrived and finding wires from the plant were down went to Junction City, two miles away to telephone T. A. Young, superintendent, at his home in Columbus. He also called physicians.

After all the survivors had escaped from the burning building, O'Malley and others worked among them applying oil to their burns. When the doctors came they dressed wounds of more than thirty men.

It was said that three or four were so severely burned they probably would die.

FACE GRUESOME TASK

With the coming of daylight rescue workers found a gruesome task facing them. The dormitory, a temporary structure, consisted of a corrugated iron covering on a wooden frame, erected on a brick foundation six to ten feet with a wooden floor.

Floor, wooden frame and sheet iron covering had fallen into the shallow basement made by the foundation, and with them had fallen the prisoners' beds.

Searchers from the top of the foundation wall, looked down into a tangle of steel rods, scraps of sheet iron, charred timbers and wire and could see scraps of clothing and dark masses of charred bodies here and there.

The fire brought forth its stories of individual heroism among the prisoners.

TALES OF HEROISM

One or two related a story of seeing a prisoner vainly attempt to carry a crippled friend to safety. Finally, they said, he found he was unable to lift him and fled to save his own life.

Another story was told of a man who escaped the flames and on looking into the building through a window saw his buddy still lying trying to fight his way out. Intent on rescuing him, the man outside dashed back into the building. As far as was learned both were burned to death. It was impossible to learn their names.

The eight most seriously burned were taken to the penitentiary hospital at Columbus early Monday, in the brick plant truck.

The fire was believed to have started from defective wiring in the commissary, where smoke was first discovered.

Some of the prisoners afterwards asserted that some of the guards on duty at the dormitory refused to open the doors to let the men out when the flames were discovered, until ordered to do so by Captain Howell.

APPLETON CAR IS DAMAGED IN CRASH

A car owned and driven by August J. Rehmer, 317 W. Erie-st., was badly damaged about 5:30 Sunday morning at the junction of Highway 26 and 10 and Lepp's Corner when it was struck by a machine owned and driven by Dell Perry, route 5, Oshkosh. Perry, according to Mr. Rehmer, did not stop for an arterial highway sign at the intersection and crashed into the rear end of Rehmer's car, turning it completely around and tipping it over in the ditch. Mr. Rehmer, accompanied by Henry and August Zimmer, both of Appleton, were on their way to a nearby lake where they intended to go duck hunting. No body was injured.

Four traffic law violators, arrested by Fred Arndt, motorcycle officer, over the weekend, appeared in municipal court before Judge Theodore Ross Monday morning and paid fines while they pleaded guilty to charges against them.

H. L. Evenson, 525 S. Webster-st., Green Bay, was fined $10 and costs for reckless driving. He was arrested about 11:20 Sunday night after he attempted to pass five cars.

Herman E. Vandebey, Kimberly, and LeRoy Sage, Ford du Lac, were fined $10 and costs each for speeding. Vandebey was arrested Sunday evening for traveling 38 miles an hour on N. Richmond-st and Sage was arrested Saturday evening for traveling 40 miles an hour on N. Richmond-st.

Harvey Lovet, 1505 N. Clark-st., was fined $5 and costs for parking without lights on E. Newberry-st. about 11:15 Saturday night.

HITS SAFETY GATES AT RAIL CROSSING

A car owned by Clarence Manthe, 1327 N. Meade-st., crashed into the safety gates at the intersection of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks about 7:30 Saturday evening and broke two of them, according to police records. The accident occurred when Manthe, driving north on Meade-st at a high rate of speed, slid 20 feet before hitting the gates, according to Dick Helms, 316 E. Atlantic-st., who reported the accident to the police.

BOTH NEW YORK CANDIDATES STRONG

Supporting Hoover and Curtis promptly announced their support of Franklin Roosevelt. He will make such deep inroads on the Republican vote as to offset the invasion of the Democratic vote by the large Jewish vote in New York city which would naturally go to Attorney General Ottinger, their first choice to run for governor of the Empire state.

Mr. Roosevelt's physical handicap is already a subject of discussion. Infantile paralysis deprived him of the use of his legs but he had been slowly recovering. Had he refused to accept the nomination and stayed in the south at a health resort he might have accelerated his recovery. His acceptance means retardation. That was his sacrifice but the New York World points out that otherwise he is physically fit and that he is like a wounded war veteran without a leg or an arm. The World expresses the hope that a "pair of legs" will not become the issue in the gubernatorial campaign.

In upstate New York already there are indications that Mr. Roosevelt will pull a heavy vote—a section where Governor Smith is not strong. It is not inconceivable that Mr. Roosevelt might even run ahead of Governor Smith throughout the state.

Both candidates have made an excellent impression. Mr. Ottinger is a vigorous executive who has twice demonstrated his popularity as a vote-getter. There will be much scratching of tickets this time on his account. It was a foreknowledge of Ottinger's power that compelled the drafting of Franklin Roosevelt. The latter had planned to make several speeches outside New York state for Governor Smith and probably will not make an active campaign. He has an excellent speaking voice for the radio.

MUCH BROADCASTING

Both candidates will be on the air a good deal. For several years there has been agitation against having the gubernatorial and national election come the same year. This time it has worked out to the advantage of the state because the rival parties have been forced to put up the very best among their candidates.

The net effect of the nominations thus far is to retain for Governor Smith the gains he has made in the state and to offset some of the anti-Bachman sentiment which has been building up against him. Mr. Roosevelt is a distant cousin of young Theodore Roosevelt, who ran for governor four years ago and the name Roosevelt has a magic appeal in New York state irrespective of party. The electoral vote of New York state is still in doubt by Governor Smith's chances of capturing it have not been diminished by the state conventions.

public, and not in some private office, at the courthouse.

Mr. Zuehlke said: No matter what other faction or group of self-styled Republicans claim, I head the only regular Republican group in the county and I intend to see that the work is carried on under the true Republican banner.

The difficulty appears to hinge around the recent announcement of Mr. Bachman and he would support Governor Smith for president because the Democratic candidate stood for the principles of true Progressivism. Mr. Bachman denounced Hoover and praised Smith in the highest terms.

Twenty-one precincts of the county elected committeemen. It will be up to the committee to decide on the committeemen for the other counties and also to settle the votes that occurred in several precincts.

It is now definitely known that many Progressives of the county are out for Smith and if this group manages to gain control of the county committee it is likely that it will be turned into a Republican Smith for President club, local politicians predict.

In this event it is already certain that regular Republicans, supporting Hoover, will form a separate group to seek the electoral vote of the county.

TRUCKS MAY REPLACE EXPRESS CO. HORSES

W. N. Kimball, general agent of the American Railway Express company, will go to Milwaukee Tuesday to inspect motor trucks which will probably be used here by the express company. If the trucks meet with the approval of the officials, four of them will be brought into use here, according to Mr. Kimball. Motor trucks have taken the place of the old wagons and horses in many cities. The horses are disposed of on farms and most of the wagons are standing idle.

150 BOYS JOIN "Y" IN CAMPAIGN FOR MEMBERS

Nearly 150 boys have joined the Y. M. C. A. since the joy's department campaign started on Oct. 1, according to C. C. Bailey, boys' work secretary. The Army team was still leading Saturday afternoon with 14 points while the Navy hadn't scored a single touchdown. Points are determined by the number of yards allotted during the game. Each new member secured entitles the team to a yard. John Roach is refereeing the match. A drive report meeting will be held at the association building Monday evening.

SERVICE STORES MEET

The regular meeting of members of Appleton Service stores will be held Monday evening at the Pette grocery, W. College-ave, instead of at the Becker grocery, as originally planned. The meeting will open at 7:30.

REILLY DROPS OUT OF SENATE RACE

Ham J. Campbell, Oshkosh, Conservative Republican, had been urged by some to enter the race when it was intimated Mr. Reilly might withdraw. Senator Markham entered the race instead, and this was satisfactory to Conservative Republicans and Mr. Campbell who had considered becoming a candidate decided not to run in view of Mr. Markham's candidacy.

REILLY'S STATEMENT

The statement by Mr. Reilly says: "After giving the matter careful consideration, I have decided to withdraw my name as a candidate for the office of United States senator for Wisconsin on the Democratic ticket."

"I accepted the draft of the Democratic state conference to run as a candidate for the office of United States senator because I thought I could thereby render some service to my party and the principles for which it stands. I have now reached the conclusion that I can best serve my party and the cause of progressive government, state and nation, by withdrawing as a candidate for such office."

"Senator Robert M. LaFollette, the Republican nominee for United States senator, in my belief, just as much in favor of the legislative program for which Governor Smith stands as I am, and I also believe that he will support that program in the senate."

"In my senatorial campaign I have covered 20 counties in the state to date, having made speeches in about 60 different places, and I have yet to find a supporter of Senator LaFollette who is not also a supporter of Governor Smith. Leaders followers of Senator LaFollette have recently launched a statewide campaign in the interest of Governor Smith's candidacy.

LEADERS COURAGEOUS

"The great issue in this campaign is the old issue of Progressive government — government for all the people. Both Governor Smith and Senator Robinson are able, courageous and aggressive champions of all the political principles upon which the Progressive elements of both parties are in accord."

"Wisconsin's electoral votes must be the determining political principles that will control in Washington during the next four years. It is my judgement that the success of the Progressive cause in this election should not be jeopardized in Wisconsin by an irritating and useless contest, as regards national issues, between two candidates for United States senator who are in substantial agreement on the issues of this campaign."

"I desire to be free, without any thought as regards my own political fortunes, to give all my time and energy to the support and advocacy of the election of Governor Smith and Senator Robinson."

MANY HERE END FALL COLDS QUICK WAY DOCTORS ADVISE

Get Instant Relief Instead of Added Misery Caused by Neglect of Proper Treatment

Goes Straight to Seat of Head or Chest Cold and Quickly Drives It Out of System

Urging the need to "play safe in dealing with a cold during this changeable weather," doctors are now advising home use of a pleasant and inexpensive hospital method that has given almost instant relief to vast numbers of people in Appleton, Menasha and vicinity.

Pleasant Taste—Quick Relief—Then Cold Just Disappears

Chas. G. Miller, for example, neglected a head cold several days in the hope it would clear up without treatment. Instead, it started spreading. Realizing that he was sure to feel worse and might risk pneumonia, he called his doctor, who advised double strength doses of Ayer's Pectoral—a hospital certified remedy of wild cherry, terpin hydrate and other ingredients used in treating even the most extreme hospital cases.

Relief began with the first pleasant swallow. He felt the healing, comforting warmth as it was absorbed by his system, loosening up congestion and clearing up his nose, throat and chest. In a few hours the "feverish," "achy" feeling was gone and in a day or so the cold had disappeared entirely.

Mother Ended Child's Cough Before Doctor Arrived

Mrs. C. P. Murphy phoned her doctor late at night when her little daughter, Louise, coughed hard and started running a temperature. He advised her to have a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral sent up immediately from the drug store and promised to call the next day.

Little Louise loved the pleasant taste and it stopped her coughing spell almost instantly. Soon she was sound asleep and awoke the next morning feeling like a different child. The treatment was continued as the doctor directed and in a day or so she was out playing—as well as ever.

Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by attending physician.

Ayer's Pectoral quickly penetrates and heals inflamed linings of the air passages. Absorbed by the system it helps allay congestion and drive out the cold from the nose passages, throat and chest.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral now and you, too, will feel like a different person tomorrow. At Schlicht Bros., and all druggists—60c and, twice as much in $1.00 hospital size.

SPORTS NEWS OF NEENAH AND MENASHA SOCIETY

OCONTO DEFEATS NEENAH GRIDDERS BY 12 TO 6 SCORE

Local High School Takes Early Lead but Weakens Toward End of Game

Neenah—After making a touchdown in the first two minutes of play Saturday afternoon at Oconto, Neenah high school team weakened and allowed Oconto high school team to win by a score of 12 to 6. Following a series of line smashes and passes during which the Neenah team forced the ball to the Oconto 10 yard line, Schneller received a pass from Shea, playing full, and crossed the line. Oconto secured its two markers on runs around end and a pass in the second and third quarter.

CARTON COMPANY ORGANIZED HERE

Authorized Capital Stock of New Industry Is $200,000—Half Is Subscribed

Neenah—The Wisconsin Carton company was organized Saturday afternoon at a meeting at the National Manufacturers bank. The authorized capital stock is $200,000, over half of which has been subscribed. The company has acquired the site in the Fourth ward formerly owned by the V. J. Paper Mills upon which a building will be erected immediately. Several locations were under consideration but Neenah was selected on account of its railway facilities. The company will manufacture, buy, sell, distribute and deal in paper, paper boxes, paper containers, cartons and paper products of every kind.

The meeting was called to order by T. Mader, who was elected chairman. William F. Wolf was elected secretary. The meeting elected a board of directors composed of B. C. Koepke, Appleton contractor; J. T. Thompson of the Davis-Thompson Machine company of Milwaukee; J. T. Mader, formerly with the Menasha Printing and Carton company; Gust Ladwig, building contractor of Milwaukee; W. M. Otto, superintendent of the Henry Box plant at Watertown; W. E. Kingsbury of Stevens Point; and Henry Fellenz, secretary and treasurer of Theresa and Rock River Canning company. Two of the directors were absent, which delayed the election of officers until the next meeting.

PUSH SCHNELLER FOR COMMANDER OF LEGION

Neenah—Frank J. Schneller, Neenah, past state American Legion commander, is mentioned as a possible candidate for National commander of the organization. The Wisconsin delegation to the national convention at San Antonio, Texas, this week will submit Mr. Schneller's name for the office.

FOOTBALL FANS ESCAPE INJURIES IN ACCIDENT

Neenah—A group of Neenah men, Robert Brown, Harry Williams, J. T. Mader, Leo Schubert and Alie Burr, narrowly escaped serious injuries or possible death Saturday morning when the new car owned and driven by Mr. Brown turned over and caught fire on the road to Madison where the party was headed to witness the Wisconsin-Notre Dame football game. While attempting to turn out for an approaching car south of Rosendale, the machine struck some freshly placed gravel causing it to head toward the ditch. The car struck a large stump and was turned over completely.

The occupants barely had time to get out before the car was aflame, the fire completely destroying it. With exception of a small cut on Mr. Schubert's car and a similar cut on the head of Alie Burr, the party was uninjured and proceeded to the game in passing cars. The car was completely covered by insurance.

ARREST 5 MORE FOR UNLAWFUL SHOOTING

Neenah—H. Dallnow, W. Zimmermann, H. Shells, R. N. Wollner and Clarence Buge, all residents of the southern part of the state, have been arrested by Game Wardman A. Dunham on charges of shooting game birds before sunrise and after sunset on Lake Poygan. These men are out of sight from whom warrants have been issued, who will be brought into Justice Jenson's court Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning for a hearing.

Zimmermann appeared in court Monday noon and was fined $100 and costs or sentenced to 60 days at Winnebago jail. This is his second offense in the last six weeks records show.

The watch-bird disease has destroyed nearly 600 acres of cacao in Trinidad.

MENASHA GRIDDERS BEAT NEW LONDON BY SCORE OF 19-0

High School Team Comes from Behind to Take Conference Game Saturday

Menasha—After trailing 6 to 0 at the end of the first quarter due to a 60 yard march down the field by the New London high school team, Menasha high school team came back Saturday in the second period to tie the score when Poquette circled right end and dashed 40 yards for a touchdown. After the kickoff, Menasha again swept down the field from the New London 40 yard line, Poquette plunging over the line. Menasha's third and final touchdown came in the third period after a series of line plunges had netted 40 yards, Klinke going over from the 2 yard-line. The final score was Menasha high school 19; New London high school 6.

FIRST QUARTER

New London kicked off, Menasha was unable to gain and kicked to the New London 40 yard line. A forward pass was good for 10 yards. The Reds smashed through the line for 10 more, Menasha then held, and kicked to the 50-yard line. Menasha gained 40 yards through the line, but was penalized 15 yards for roughness and kicked to their 40 yard line. New London made first down with the aid of a 5-yard penalty, Menasha being off-side. The Reds went around left end for 10 yards, then smashed through center for 10 more. The ball was on Menasha's 10 yard line. On 3 plays through center, New London went over for a touchdown. The try-for-extra point failed. New London kicked off, and Menasha fumbled after going 9 yards as the first quarter ended, New London recovering.

SECOND QUARTER

New London opened the second period with a 25 yard pass, bringing the ball to Menasha's 25 yard line. The locals held for downs, and kicked to New London's 30 yard line. The Reds kicked to Menasha's 40 yard line. On the first play Poquette went around right end for 60 yards and a touchdown. The try for extra point failed, but the score was tied 6 all.

Menasha kicked over the New London goal line, the Reds kicked to their 40 yard line, and Menasha was penalized for taking too much time in calling signals. Menasha went around right end for 10 yards, and then circled left end for 10 more. A forward pass was complete, but Menasha was penalized 5 yards for off-side. A forward pass of 30 yards brought the ball to the New London 5 yard line. Poquette went over for a touchdown. The try for the extra point was good. Score 13 to 6. The ball was in midfield as the first half ended.

THIRD QUARTER

After an exchange of punts, Menasha took the ball on their 45 yard line. Massay went around left end for 15 yards, Poquette fumbled, New London recovering on their 35 yard line. Poquette circled left end for 12 yards. A forward pass netted 15 yards, bringing the ball to New London's 35 yard line as the third quarter ended.

The Menasha backs rushed the ball down to the New London 3 yard line, losing the ball on a fumble. New London kicked out of danger, but Menasha came right back with a vicious line smashing attack which finally netted a touchdown, when Klinke plunged over center for the last two yards. The kick for the extra point was wide. The team exchanged punts, Menasha taking the ball on their own 40 yard line.

Poquette ran around right end for 40 yards before being brought down on the New London 20 yard line. Menasha then lost the ball on a fumble, New London kicked out of danger, New London intercepted a Menasha pass on the local's 45 yard line. A forward pass netted 20 yards, New London then circled left to Menasha's 10 yard line as the game was ended.

PRIZE BOOKS FAIL WHEN PUT ON MARKET

Authoress Lives in Obscurity Although Her Work Received Award

BY DOROTHY RUSSELL
Kiribby-Lonsdale, England—(P)—Winner of the Femina Vie Heureuse prize for her novel of country life, "The Splendid Fairing" and revered by a group of England's literary lights, Constance Holme nevertheless lives in obscurity in this little village, unrecognized by the reading public to whom her books are virtually unknown.

Her "failure" is only repetition of that endured by many whose works were not recognized during their lifetime, among the recent being Mary Webb, now gaining a tardy but posthumous fame in England.

Constance Holme, like her work, is a part of this Westmoreland countryside. She was born in Milne-thorpe, a village on the edge of Morecambe Bay and all her life has been spent there and at The Gables, Lady Henry Bentinck's estate at Kiribby Lonsdale, only 10 miles away where her husband, Frederick Burt Punchedale is land agent.

Living in the country, far from London and without the stimulus of encouragement and advice, Miss Holme faced the young author's usual struggle of searching for a market only to be rewarded for the most part with returned manuscripts and polite rejection slips. Some of her early stories appeared in local newspapers and she wrote plays for the village dramatic society.

In 1912, when she was just over 30, her first novel, "Crump Folk Going Home" was accepted for publication and was enthusiastically received by the critics. After her second book, "The Lonely Plough," appeared, she found herself lionized by literary circles in London, but the public reception was frigid. "The Road from Spain" met with similar critical success and public failure and even "The Splendid Fairing," which won the Femina Prize in 1920 had disappointing sales.

"It is fifteen years now since my first novel was published," says Constance Holme, "and in that time I have written seven books, but I never earned more than pocket money from them. It is impossible that I should not wonder occasionally whether I am wasting my time whatever praise the critics and literary friends may give and it is only because I love writing so much and I hope, after all, my books are serving some good purpose that I am able to go on."

BEELIAN ROADS FIGHT MOTORS

To compete with the growing motor transportation, the Belgian Railways are giving cheap weekend fares, reduced rates for parties and combined rail and motor car fares and are working on a plan for door-to-door transportation for both passengers and freight. Passenger cars are to be improved and equipped with modern comforts for travelers. Showing the popularity of motor transport, the popular trade of carmen is reported that at least 85,000 motor vehicles are now connected with that town by regular motor cars service.

For Northcott

Frank Lyons, Vancouver, B. C. lawyers, has been retained by Gordon Stuart Northcott to defend him in extradition proceedings designed to bring Northcott back to Riverside, Calif., to face charges of having slain several boys on a "murder farm" at Riverside. Lyons is one of the best known criminal lawyers in western Canada.

GERMANS ADAPT SENSE OF HUMOR TO TIMES

Munich—(P)—Germany's comical journal "Die Fliegende Blaetter," the humorous pen and ink sketches of which were famed throughout the world for the last 84 years, is about to pass out of existence.

The weekly paper has become another victim of the altered postwar times. For its characteristic German trend, its subtle caricaturing of nationalistic traits and popular Teutonic customs there is no place in the cosmopolitan Germany of today.

As, moreover, the material financial losses the paper incurred during and since the war through the cessation of its foreign subscriptions could never be retrieved, the owners have reluctantly decided on a fusion of the "Fliegende Blaetter" with the "Meggendorfer Blaetter," a comic journal with a less distinctive German makeup, on January 1st, 1929. Thereby Germany loses one of its most typical periodicals of the halcyon days of imperialism.

NEW USE FOR SKATES

Boston—A woman approaching a steep hill here was observed to slip a pair of roller skates under her heavy suitcase, place the crook of an umbrella in the handle and leisurely drag the bag up the hill.

HAVANA EXPLAINS RISE IN PRICES OF CUBAN CIGARS

Manufacturers Resent Report that Quality Is Lower While Cost Is Higher

Havana—(P)—Considerable resentment has been evidenced by Cuban cigar makers over reports circulated in the United States that the famous Havana weed is ascending in price and declining in quality.

A survey of several large cigar factories here and interviews with owners indicate veracily in the report that prices are now higher, but Havana cigars, notwithstanding reports, are improved both in size and in the grade of filler and wrapper tobacco used.

Frequent statistical reports relative to "twisted tobacco"—or cigars—show that manufacturers have doubled the price of their product. This is naturally taken as an indication of duplication of prices on the same commodity, but manufacturers show that the old product is no longer exported and that in place of the former Havana "cheap" only the more expensive shapes and sizes are going abroad.

It is pointed out that duties in nearly all foreign markets are applied to weight and the better shape of Havana cigar takes a tariff of 40 per cent of its original cost, whereas in the cheap sizes it is almost 100 per cent. Consequently the smoker who is accustomed to smoke the better Havanas and an increased price of but one to two cents per cigar.

On the other hand, the smoker who used the cheaper grade Havana witnesses a sudden rise and doubled price, but contrary to his belief that it is his old favorite Havana, it is of the better grade only, the cheaper shapes not being used in export trade.

Many tourists, boy and girls scouts and housewives have requested copies of the U. S. army's cook book. Women of Scotland are wearing hats trimmed with flowers made from beech nuts.

Doctor Found What is Best for Thin, Constipated People

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and even if they required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of his 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin," and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in his private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is giving into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year.

Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have gotten many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helped them when everything else failed. Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, but you may try it free by using this coupon.

A wealth of new decorating ideas awaits you at our Karpen Week exhibit—style show of furniture. Both modernistic and traditional pieces, in rich variety, supply countless period motifs, while the new soft pastel tints of the fabrics suggest smart color themes. Perhaps you will be influenced by the modern, untrammelled lines of the group illustrated. The overstuffed pieces are in silk and worsted velvet with frize cushion tops, in various colors; the pull-up chair in figured damask or velvet in green or burnt orange. Not only artistically, but also very materially, Karpen Week helps you have rooms of beauty by lowering prices—for seven days only. Decidedly, Karpen Week is the time to redecorate.

TAYLOR CHOSEN AS "SAFE" CANDIDATE IN SLAVERY ISSUE

Mediocre Men Occupied White House During 20 Years from 1841 to '61

EDITOR'S NOTE: This chapter of "The Presidential Parade" tells of the rise of the slavery issue and Zachary Taylor's election.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER (Copyright, 1928, by Post Pub. Co. Washington—For 20 years, from 1841 to 1861, the White House was occupied by comparative mediocrities—Harrison, Tyler, Polk, Taylor, Fillmore, Pierce and Buchanan.

A great issue has arisen to dwarf personalities in presidential contests and to defeat the aspiration of those statesmen who dared to grapple with it or whose records on the question had aroused serious enemies.

The issue was slavery. It took many years to draw definite party lines, for there were southern Whigs and northern Whigs, southern Democrats and northern Democrats, and a party candidate must appeal to both. Eventually the issue was to smash both parties and bring on civil war.

NEVER HAD VOTED

Slavery came out in the open as the foremost issue in 1848, when the dominating pro-slavery Democrats nominated Gen. Zachary Taylor of Louisiana as a southern man whose military record would appeal to the north and Martin Van Buren bolted the ticket. Later, Taylor was to show they had backed the wrong horse, but at the time was merely a southerner without political background who, at the age of 64, had never voted in his life!

Opponents of slavery were becoming more aggressive and the slave states were fighting to protect their economic and social system.

Between 1844 and 1848, Texas had been annexed and the Mexican war won. Polk, who brought on the war, had failed to play ball with the Van Buren Democrats and was politically doomed. In making Buchanan, secretary of state he had demanded that no cabinet member take part in the presidential campaign and added: "Should any member of my cabinet become a candidate for president or vice president it will be expected on the happening of such an event that he will retire from my cabinet." The meek Buchanan accepted the condition but nevertheless went on a still hunt for the presidency.

DEMOCRATS DIVIDED

A division of the New York Democrats gave the Whigs their 1848 victory, thus: One faction was known as the Hunkers, because they "hunkered" for office. The reform faction was called the Barnburners because, so anxious were they for their reforms, they were willing to imitate the Dutchman who burned his barn to destroy the rats in it.

The Barnburners were at the Democratic convention in Baltimore, May, 1848, and demanded that its delegation be seated to the exclusion of the other. It was so important for the party to carry New York that the New York situation was debated two days before northern sentiment succeeded in admitting both Barnburner and Hunker delegations. The dissatisfied Barnburners with nominate Gen. Lewis Cass of Michigan, with Gen. William O. Butler of Kentucky for vice president—a "gunpowder ticket" regarded as sure to win. All the candidates had been "northern men with southern principles." The platform endorsed Polk, the Mexican war and the constitution, ignoring slavery.

Both Clay and Webster were after the Whig nomination again. Clay was now 71 years old. His 1844 defeat had left him still his party's great love. He had gone heavily into debt, being forced to mortgage Ashland, his cherished home. Secretly and anonymously, his friends paid all his debts. He had received so many evidences of popular adulation that he supposed his nomination in '48 was assured. When General Taylor's victories at Buena Vista and Palo Alto made him a popular hero, presidential possibility, Clay moved. When a majority of the Kentucky delegation voted for Taylor at the convention it nearly broke his heart.

"My race is run," he said and refused to support this second military hero who had been preferred over him. He bearded his friends to leave him "quiet and undisturbed."

After his famous reply to Hayne in 1850, Henry Cabot Lodge said in his biography: "He was never free from the gnawing, haunting ambition to win the grand prize of American public life." He could never understand how second-raters like Harrison and Taylor could be nominated though Thurlow Weed often explained to him that the party must nominate the man who had the fewest enemies and could get the most votes.

In later life, Webster sought to compromise on slavery to get southern support. The southern Whigs took his powerful aid—and turned him down. In 1848 he called Taylor an "illiterate frontier colonel who hasn't voted for 40 years," but he swallowed the bitter pill. On payment of a sum of money he made a speech for Taylor, at the same time publicly calling Taylor, "unfit."

The first Whig convention ballot at Philadelphia gave: Taylor 111, Clay 87, Scott 42, Webster 22. Taylor got his majority on the fourth ballot, won by a vote of 171, Clay 82, Scott 52, Webster 14. On the first ballot Taylor had at least one vote from every state. The southern Whigs had realized that only a southern candidate could save the party in the south and the northern Whigs had to have a man who could be sold ineffectively to the north—hence "Old Zach," with Millard Fillmore of New York for vice president. The convention ignored slavery by adopting no platform at all.

GREELEY ANGRY

Horace Greeley, angry at the nomination, returned to New York and wrote a hot column in the Tribune headed, "The Philadelphia slaughter-house," but later suppressed the ticket along with other disgruntled northern Whigs.

Taylor accepted the nomination in a letter expressing thanks and say-

H. S. GLEE CLUBS TO GIVE COMIC OPERA

Will Present Difficult Production, The Mikado, Under Miss Ruth McKennan

The Mikado, the most modern and most difficult of Gilbert and Sullivan comic operas, has been chosen for the annual production of Appleton high school glee clubs. Tryouts for the cast are being held now, and rehearsals will be started Monday. The opera will be given Dec. 10 at Fischer's Appleton theatre.

Miss Ruth McKennan, director of dramatics at the high school, will have charge of the dramatic work in the presentation, and Carl S. McKee, director of public school vocal music, will direct the music.

Though the Mikado is a bit beyond the reach of high school glee clubs, according to Mr. McKee, the directors are confident that the Appleton high school clubs will be able to present the opera in a finished style. The play will be elaborately staged, and costumes will be obtained from the Dave Miller costume company of Milwaukee.

ing that although he didn't think he was big enough for the job, he would do his best. Boss Thurlow Weed of New York made him write another endorsing "Whig principles."

But meanwhile our old friends, the Barnburners, had held conventions of Abolitionists and anti-Cass Democrats at Buffalo and Utica, organizing the Free Soil anti-slavery party on a platform of "Free Soil, Free Speech, Free Labor and Free Men." It nominated Martin Van Buren for president and Charles Francis Adams of Massachusetts for vice president. Van Buren accepted the nomination, probably hoping to throw the election into the House, for the new party's principles were hardly his own. He was inclined to be the instrument used to defeat Cass and he did. Splitting the New York democracy between himself and Cass he gave Taylor the state by a huge plurality but not by a majority. Again New York's 36 electoral votes were decisive, although other states where Van Buren polled votes were given to Taylor in the same way. The count was:

	Popular	Electoral
Taylor	1,350,000	163
Cass	1,220,544	127
Van Buren	231,263	None

TOMORROW: The last of the Whigs.

SCOUT OFFICIALS TO MEET IN KIEL FOR CONFERENCE

Approximately 25 Officials from Valley Will Attend Sessions This Weekend

Approximately 25 scoutmasters, troop committee men, and other scout promoters of the valley council of boy scouts will attend the Training conference at Camp Rokilo, Sheboygan scout camp near Kiel, Oct. 13 and 14, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive.

The conference will, open Saturday afternoon with group songs and stunts, but the actual program will not begin until after the supper hour. The evening's program will consist of talks and discussions on scouting subjects.

George Villow will discuss Troop Rating Program, the first subject to be taken up. H. H. Braun, scoutmaster of Troop 2 of the First Methodist church, will explain and describe investiture ceremonies. Following these two talks there will be a short intermission during which time the scoutmasters will hold group singing. Immediately after the intermission, Herbert Shipper is scheduled to take up the subject of Building Programs, to be followed by a detailed description of new scoutmaster's key by H. R. Hertz, Oshkosh scout executive.

The key is given to scoutmasters who have completed the prescribed five year course. It is similar to a Phi Beta Kappa honorary key.

The closing talk on the evening's program will be a discussion of the relationship of scoutmaster to troop committee, by D. W. Huenkel of Sheboygan.

Character Values in Scouting, the feature of the Sunday program, will be discussed by Dr. N. E. Richardson of Northwestern University. Dr. Richardson is chairman of the educational committee of the seventh regional, which includes Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan. He has made a detailed study of the subject, besides writing many pamphlets on it.

The day's program will open with a breakfast, followed by an inspirational talk by H. Roberts of Oshkosh. Mr. Roberts is a great lover of boys and is well known to all of them. At 9 o'clock in the morning the group will break up and the Catholic scoutmasters will leave to attend church at Kiel, while the others will remain in camp for devotional services.

Regular conference work will be resumed at 10:30 with a talk on Troopleaders' Conferences, by H. C. Tenneke, John Egan, Manitowish Scout commissioner, will tell of his personal experience in scouting. An open forum will be held during the afternoon session previous to the camp breakup. The conference will close with a talk by Dr. Richardson.

Drunkenness Is a Disease!

The Liquor or Drug User Should be Treated Rather Than Blamed

Most persons misunderstand the real reason for alcoholic addiction. They say it is due to lack of will power on the part of the drink victim. Or to downright depravity. But they are wrong. Alcoholism is as much a disease as any other human illness. It has to be treated as such. Today with the aid of trained medical experts and the World Famous Keeley Treatment total freedom from liquor and drug cravings are obtained. Nowhere could a user of liquor or drugs obtain such freedom from his craving than at The Keeley Institute. Here he is able in a few short and pleasant weeks not only to shake off all desire or necessity for liquor or drugs, but to regain his health and strength of will. The Keeley Treatment has enabled thousands of men and women in all walks of life to do this. Its record of success dates back over a period of more than fifty years. If you have a friend or relative afflicted with either cure—the use of drink or drugs—write The Keeley Institute today for full particulars. All correspondence strictly confidential.

INDIANS RECEIVE $3,862 AS PAY FOR FISHING PERMITS

A total of $3,862 was collected by the Keshena Indian agency at Keshena, Wis., for fishing permits issued during the past summer, according to W. R. Byerm, superintendent of the reservation. A total of 450 day fishing permits, at $1 each, and a total of 1,137 season fishing permits at $3 each, were issued according to Mr. Byerm. This is the best record the reservation has made for some years.

SCHEDULE VALLEY VOLLEYBALL GAMES

Tournament for Championship Will Start Oct. 23 at Green Bay

The schedule for the Fox river valley volleyball tournament starting Oct. 23 at Green Bay, has been completed by A. P. Jensen, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., and secretary of the Fox River Valley League. The Appleton Y. M. C. A. team will play 10 games. The first one will be staged against the Paine Lumber company at the Oshkosh Junior high school, Wednesday, Oct. 24. The Fox du Lac Y. M. C. A. team will play here on the evening of Oct. 30, and the Lawrence college team will clash with the Y men on the association court Nov. 14.

Other teams which the local team will meet are the Kimberly team at Kimberly on Nov. 8; Oshkosh Elks on Nov. 21; Green Bay Y here on Nov. 28, and the Neenah team at Neenah on Dec. 5. The second round of the tournament will be played on reversed field. The semi-finals and final game of the tournament will be staged the second week in December, according to Mr. Jensen.

APPLE TREE IN BLOOM ALTHOUGH WINTER IS NEAR

Brown leaves floating through the air—dry, lifeless cornstalks in the garden—fall flowers peeping through layers of dead leaves—a garden speckled with ripened fall vegetables. All these evidences that fall is here and winter is high and yet, in the midst of all this lurid full harvest, in the yard of Fred Shumaker, 218 N. Meadest blooms a pink and white cluster of apple blossoms, as fresh and sweet smelling as any spring appleblossom. And the single cluster is nestling between branches laden with early fall apples.

WILL ASK COUNCIL TO BUILD APARTMENT HERE

Plans for an apartment building to be erected on the southwest corner of E. Lawrence and S. Durkee-st. have been submitted to the city clerk and probably will be presented to the city council at its next meeting. The apartment building will face Lawrence and will house nine families. A sketch drawing of the building was submitted with the request to the council for permission to build.

Has Science Solved An Age-Old Problem?

By L. N. CONRAD

Head of Sargon Laboratories Tells of Recent Discoveries that Revolutionize the Treatment of Constipation.

PEOPLE frequently ask me why it is necessary to take Sargon Soft Mass Pills in connection with Sargon. The answer is that Sargon is designed to restore that delicate chemical balance of the body which we call metabolism. It does this through its action on certain organs and fluids of the body which science has found to be all-important in maintaining good health.

Sargon Laboratories

But before the action of Sargon can become really thorough, the self-poisoning effect of constipation must be removed. It is useless to attempt to restore bodily vigor and the zest for living when the entire intestinal tract is filled with decaying waste.

CONSTIPATION HAS BEEN FOR centuries the curse of civilized man. It is interesting to find that Hippocrates, the first physician of history, attempted to cure constipation with purges and cathartics. That was more than two thousand years ago. We have been blasting out the intestines with cathartics ever since. Yet in all that time, purges and cathartics never cured a single case of chronic constipation and never will.

Cathartics do relieve constipation for the time being, but their effect is only temporary. It is a case of treating symptoms, not the disease, and the more we resort to artificial aids of this sort, the more we require, because their continued use weakens the natural peristaltic action of the bowels.

THE PROPER METHOD of overcoming constipation, like any other disease, is to treat the cause. With in recent years the true cause of constipation has at last been found. As a result of world-wide scientific investigation, we now know that constipation is almost invariably due to lack of bile.

We can most of us remember when bile was thought to be a harmful distillation of the body which caused biliousness, nausea and other unpleasant symptoms. We now know that bile is all-important to the processes of digestion and elimination and that the average man or woman requires three pints of bile every twenty-four hours if good health is to be maintained.

BILE IS MANUFACTURED by the liver. It then flows through a duct into the digestive tract to be mixed with the contents of the stomach. Here are some of the astounding things it accomplishes:

When it mixes with the food we have eaten: It turns the contents of the stomach from acid to alkaline and prevents hyperacidity. It is a powerful digestant which greatly aids the process of digestion. It is an antiseptic which retards putrefaction in the intestines and so combats the formation of gas. Last but not least bile is Nature's own laxative, so certain in its action that a normal flow of bile practically assures proper, regular elimination.

Having discovered these things about bile, science next found that seven out of ten people past the age of thirty suffer from lack of bile flow caused by a sluggish liver. That fact accounts for the enormous amount of constipation among civilized peoples today and explains why cathartics are of only temporary value.

The modern method of treating constipation therefore is to induce the liver to manufacture the normal amount of bile. This can be accomplished by gently stimulating the liver with a recently discovered substance which does not produce nausea, griping or any other unpleasant effect. It simply tones up the liver until it produces the normal amount of bile.

SARGON SOFT MASS PILLS contain this newly discovered substance. They overcome constipation in the modern, natural, non-habit-forming way. They simply induce a proper flow of Nature's own digestive and laxative, bile. When this is accomplished, their use can be discontinued.

Sargon is the result of the last ten years of world-wide scientific medical research. It is designed to build up run-down people by modern methods undreamed of a few years ago. It has had the most tremendous success of any medicinal product ever placed on the market. For example, I have just spent a day in Memphis, Tenn., one of the cities where Sargon was first introduced to the public a few months ago. Over forty thousand people in Memphis and vicinity alone have been built up and rejuvenated by this modern tonic.

IN ALL THESE FORTY THOUSAND cases, however, and in every other case where Sargon has accomplished its full mission, it was necessary to restore bile flow to normal before the full tonic and invigorating effect of Sargon could be obtained. It is for this reason that Sargon Soft Mass Pills are a necessary part of the Sargon treatment.

Sargon may be obtained in Appleton from Volgt's Drug Store. Copyright 1928 by G. F. Willis, Inc.

HOOVER CAMPAIGN VIEWS

Mr. Hoover in his third campaign address, at Elizabethton, Tenn., shows a determination not to engage in a joint debate with his opponent or the opposing party. He is going to conduct his campaign on his own views and according to his own ideas. He is laying before the country a definite outline of political and social ideals and a definite program of governmental policies. He is not going to be thrown into a controversy over men and issues of the past. He assumes that the country knows he does not approve of whatever violations of trust, corruption or other wrongdoing may have occurred, and he has no hesitancy in asking for recognition of legislation and executive conduct that have been beneficial to the country.

In brief, Mr. Hoover lays down the simple proposition that the United States "has entered upon an entirely new era." The fourteen years since the beginning of the World war he holds have been revolutionary "in our world relations, in many phases of our economic life, and our relations of government to them." These changes and problems he discusses with rare ability and insight. He appears to have a thorough grasp of the forces which have brought about present social, economic and political conditions and he turns his face to the future in dealing with them.

Mr. Hoover makes an ardent plea for certain commonplaces, for instance, the American home and family, as the "economic, moral and spiritual unit of American life," and as "the beginning of self-government." And further along, when he says: "I, with other Americans, have perhaps unduly resented the stream of criticism of American life, the stature and character of our people. More particularly have I resented the sneers at Main street, for I have known that in the cottages that lay behind the street rested the strength of our national character. * I do not wish to disparage the usefulness of Broadway, Pennsylvania Avenue or State street, but it is from Main street and its countryside that the creative energies of the nation must be replenished and restored."

On these excellent foundations and with a tribute to American fair play and sportsmanlike spirit in presidential elections, Mr. Hoover submits his views to the nation. While he is speaking directly to the South at Elizabethton, he is in reality addressing himself to the country as a whole, for his message is the same to both and to all parts. He does not have one solution of the farm problem for the East and one for the West, one waterway proposal for one section and one for another.

Mr. Hoover's third campaign address presents nothing really new, and yet it is remarkably clear, logical and comprehensive discussion in new form of the broad questions of government, social life and economics. Whether he is addressing himself to cold statistics and figures, revealing his great knowledge of industry, commerce and business and his capacity for their efficient, orderly and wholesome development for the benefit of all, or whether he is voicing his ideals of social equality and opportunity and international cooperation and peace, he is equally forceful.

Mr. Hoover's appeal to the South is on the broad basis that its interests are coincident with and common to those of the rest of the country; that protection to the producer and labor has been highly instrumental to its growth in the last eight years, and that continuance of this policy and of business competency at Washington in the development of further economies, helpful relations between government and commerce and industry, and the acquisition and extension of foreign markets are essential to its prosperity. Although he re-states his agricultural proposals, they rest on the creation of a federal farm board as disclosed in a former speech, to be clothed with very great powers and resources, to build up with large initial advances of capital from the government farmer-owned and farmer-controlled stabilization corporations which "will protect the farmer from depressions and the demoralization of summer and periodic surpluses." Such an instrumentality, he holds, should be able to develop as years go on the constructive measures necessary to solve the new farmers' problems that will inevitably arise. It is no proposal of subsidy or fee or tax upon the farmer. It is a proposal to assist the farmer onto his own feet into control of his own destinies. This is not a theoretic formulae. It is a business proposition designed to make farming more profitable. No such far-reaching and specific proposal has ever been made by a political party on behalf of any industry in our history. It marks our desire for establishment of farmers' stability and at the same time maintains his independence and individuality.

Somehow or other one seems to gather from Mr. Hoover's plain statement of the farm question and his known rating and achievements in the fields of political economy, that here is a better prospect of stabilizing agriculture and making the farmers' future what it should be than a dozen McNary-Haugen bills and all the vagaries and theories of politicians combined. We shall not be surprised if this fact impresses itself upon the rank and file of the farmers throughout the country.

Mr. Hoover opposes any increase in immigration. He dismisses prohibition with the observation that he wishes the eighteenth amendment to succeed and recognizes the obligation of the president to eliminate "the abuses which have grown up around" enforcement. He wants a sound merchant marine, enlarged and vigorous development of waterways and good roads, immediate and energetic construction of flood control works of the Mississippi, promotion and defense of our foreign trade, "inexorable pursuit" of policies of economy in government, elimination of waste in production and distribution, regularity in securing employment, still higher standards of living, an army and navy that shall give us complete defense of our homes from "even the fear of foreign invasion," the cultivation of world peace with all powers, swifter and surer justice in our courts, the strengthening of our public school system and legislation and administration meeting the "supreme test that it provide equal opportunity for all our citizens, not for any special group."

Mr. Hoover is against extension of the federal government into the operation of business in competition with its citizens, holding that it not only undermines initiative, but also state and local self-government, and is "the destruction of state's rights." He is, however, for the "conservation of our governmentally controlled natural resources in the interest of the people. It (Democracy) has demonstrated that by the power of regulation it can prevent abuse; it can and must control natural monopolies in full public interest." In conclusion he says:

I have endeavored in this address to present to you the policies which have made and will make for prosperity of our country. They hold the hope of the final abolition of poverty. They make for more individuality in life. They open the door of opportunity to boys and girls of town and country as well as of the great cities. From these accomplishments comes the life of moral and spiritual life. From them comes an America greater and higher in purpose.

Every citizen can read Mr. Hoover's Elizabethton address with profit to his mind and Americanism, whether he intends to vote for him for president or not. It is not an argumentative document. It does not deal with anything petty or inconsequential. It is full of inspiration and the progressive instinct. It is a great piece of salesmanship of America to Americans. It shows his attitude of mind toward policies and functions of government. It shows exactly what might be expected from him as president. How it will appear to the South no one can say. There can hardly be any doubt that it will be well received throughout the nation as a whole.

Although white rats usually have pink eyes, specimens of a new variety, with black eyes, have been found in central France.

One London school, at Highgate, has a fully equipped hangar, with airplanes and engines, fitted up on the roof of a new science building.

In one street in the West End of London, New Watrloo Place, there are 21 public signs, all but two of them referring to traffic.

The Remedy is Worse Than the Malady

WHY BLAME HER?

ANGINA SOMETHING OR other is being blamed for the trouble which is afflicting Appleton, but I don't think she should be held responsible for all of them. If I get it, I know she won't be, for I don't even know the gal. But it she's as bad as they say she is, why don't they put her in quarantine, or something.

WELL! CALL THE SHERIFF

After all the trouble Sheriff Otto Zuehlke had keeping three much advertised geese in the county jail, he'd probably consent to isolate Angina in a cell, where she can't do much mischief. Incidentally, those people who are squabbling over the geese probably will find the birds will fly too high even for Thanksgiving prices. I suggest that they send the three geese to one of the presidential candidates. It's cheaper publicity, and much more effective.

I SHOULD HAVE LIKED to have been in the postoffice Tuesday morning to hear the messenger's voice as he came out of the office with the thrill of a hold-up without running any of its risks. It'd be almost as much fun as letting the other fellow pay the luncheon check.

THE PROOFREADER'S DAY OFF

As the story was written:
Miss May Bloom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Bloom, of W. Percy street, and Henry Spoor Fish were wed Tuesday afternoon at the home of her mother. The bride was attended by one of her many friends, Miss Irma Benedict. The groom and his wife are widely known here. The former lived at New Eden for a long time. The happy pair will make their home on the big farm of the groom's father.

THE CLASS HAD BEEN discussing the effect of heat and cold on iron. The teacher had explained that an iron bridge would expand several inches in hot weather and contract several inches in cold weather. She asked Jimmy to give another similar example and he said "In hot weather the days are long and in cold weather the days are short."

ABOUT POLITICS: I heard a group of local political lights of both parties discuss the merits and demerits of the two candidates. The language was eloquent and slightly heated, as the following testifies:

"What about prosperity?" asked one Pro-Hoover.
"Best that's bunk! What's prosperity got to do with politics? This country'll be just as well off, or better, when Al Smith is in the White House!"

"Well, Al Smith ain't going to get in. But I'll bet anything you want to name that, if he is elected, nine out of ten business places will be closed four months after he takes the oath of office. And nine out of ten is a conservative estimate."

"You're crazy! Talk sense, even if you are prejudiced!"
"Wait and see!"
Then L. Hugo went home. Later musing on what had been said, he looked at a calendar. Four months after inauguration is July 4.

The following was told at an after dinner meeting of an Appleton organization last week.
"The maid had been surreptitiously using the bath-tub of her employer, an elderly clergyman. He was a bachelor, very fastidious about his toilet, and desired the exclusive use of his tub. He reprimanded the maid with much indignation:
"What distresses me most, Mary, is that you have done this behind my back."

THEY PICK NICKED, TOO
We plucked in a shady glen
Full ninety miles from anywhere.
Mosquitoes feasted merrily.
What do they eat when I'm not there
On sunlit hill far from the crowd—
Wee whining pests in shadowed lane—
Anghushed I ponder scratching bites
What did they eat before I came?

Mary's goat, subject of a soulful lament by Harold the Seer, inspired the Prince of Vagrants to burst forth with the following:
Mary had a little mule.
It followed her to school.
The teacher, like a fool,
Went up behind the mule,
And hit him with a rule.
There wasn't any school!

HO, HUM, WHY EXERCISE.

Every one knows that energy is necessary for the working of a muscle, whether it be the muscle that waggles your jaw or the muscle that you call your heart or the muscle you use to drag yourself away from the dinner table when you're fed up.

Some folks have a vague notion that the necessary energy, somehow comes from the nervous system, and people with that notion readily accept the idea of "nervous exhaustion" or "nervous breakdown" or "weak nerves" as an explanation for whatever needs explaining. These people — there are millions of 'em — are so complacent in their, er, unawareness, I believe the censor insists one should say when one means ignorance — that they just can't understand why anybody should get all het up over the sad state of alleged physiology instruction in the schools. Knowing all they want to know about their insides the folks who think energy is produced or manufactured in the nervous system, regard the teaching of physiology as rather a silly thing anyway, except a few chapters, and these few chapters are nasty.

Well, it may be a shock, but the truth is that every lota of energy, muscular, vital, organic, functional, nervous, brain, call it what you will, is derived from the combustion of fuel, the oxidation of food material or of tissue material, and this process is metabolism.

Every one knows that a fire dies down if there is too little oxygen present; close the draft and the fire slows down because the oxygen supply is diminished.

The quantity of oxygen absorbed in the body is not determined by the depth or rate of breathing, as too many victims of "physical culture" sharks imagine. Deep breathing exercise is a ridiculous pastime which should be left to those who like to be humbugged. Certainly anyone can crowd an excess of oxygen into his blood by consciously deeper and slower inhalations for a minute or two; but no one can effect a permanent gain by that method, for immediately after the overbreathing comes inevitably a compensating period of underbreathing, a few moments during which one breathes not at all or takes only slow and shallow breaths and presently the oxygen level in the blood returns to the normal just as the draft had been no variation of the usual breathing. Of course the slight additional muscular effort involved in the exercise does produce a trifling increase in the absorption of oxygen, but even that is probably wiped out by the compensating period of diminished breathing after the effort.

If you really want to absorb more oxygen than you are getting now — and this is precisely what millions of people need — you've got to work other muscles than the breathers. You've got to get it. Fortunately one can employ other muscles for the purpose of supplying more oxygen for metabolism, and without any secondary compensating effect to wipe away the gains.

General exercise is the best means available for increasing the absorption of oxygen in the body, or spending up the energy of the form of exercise, work or play is of small consequence. It is the quantity and the frequency or dose that counts.

There are people who boast they never take exercise. I'd venture a good deal that such a person could not pass a fair health examination by a fair expert who has no knowledge of the exercise habits of the candidate.

It has been amply demonstrated that leprosy in its early stages is curable. This and segregation have put the disease under such control that the islands are in a fair way to be entirely rid of it before long. At the leper settlement on a peninsula, bounded by the sea and impassable cliffs on the island of Molokai, there remain four hundred and fifty lepers. These are mostly elderly persons, and the number is decreasing steadily through natural causes. They have no contact with the outside world and are supported by the Territorial Government.

Q. In medieval times was there a standard method of book-keeping and of banking? L. H. P.

ROBERT NATHAN: DELICATE ARTIST

I know of no other contemporary American writer of fiction who is quite like Robert Nathan. His new book, "The Bishop's Wife," will give those who admire this highly individual writer a chance to read him at his best. Some months ago I reviewed in this column Nathan's brief novel, "The Wood-cutter's House," and I called attention to the fact that although the book is slight in bulk and gives the surface impression of being unimportant, it keeps on stinging the mind and after a time appears much bigger than many a far more pretentious volume.

The same thing is true to a still greater degree of "The Bishop's Wife." It is a very short novel; it does not fill more than an hour or two of continuous reading. It becomes a book only with the help of fairly large type and wide margins. But it is not negligible on that account. Neither does this mean that it has taken less of the author's time than a book of hundreds of pages of close print. Robert Nathan probably brooded over the story lovingly and hatched it carefully. At least it gives that impression.

There are sculptors who can express themselves only in gigantic statues. There are other artists who can best say what they have to say in little inches or bronze figures — a few golden tall. The maker of the large figure is not necessarily a greater artist than the maker of the tiny statuette. Often the reverse is the case and often the tiny figure calls for more labor than the gigantic statue.

Robert Nathan is a maker of tiny figures but — is an exquisite artist. There is nothing slapdash about him. Every word is carefully placed and sentences flow with an artistry that reveals the author as a true lover of beautiful letters.

"The Bishop's Wife" is a simple little story but there are depths below the surface that cause the reader to look into the story again after finishing it. The bishop's wife is longing for human love. The bishop is a thorough-going puritan and he is afraid of human love. He thinks of building a great cathedral and gives his life to it.

He needs an archdeacon in his work and an angel in human form comes and applies for the place. Said angel doesn't find very much to admire in the bishop's ambitious projects but a great deal in the desires of the bishop's wife.

That is about all and it must be admitted that as drama it does not amount to much. It is exceedingly amount to much. It is exceedingly amount to much. It is exceedingly amount to much.

It is allegory moreover. Ordinarily introducing an angel into a late-day novel would seem too fantastic to be thought of. Most authors who would try it would merely get themselves laughed at. But Robert Nathan's angel is not at all what you would expect him to be. He is much more the kind of person I think Robert Nathan himself must be. He is whimsical and wistful, with just enough of a dash of the devil in him to make him interesting.

He has ideas and he does not judge people by surface appearances. He lets his mind range over a wide variety of contemporary events and he gets some surprisingly interesting effects out of them.

But allegory though the book is, it is not at all preachy. The ideas that Nathan has at heart are usually implied rather than expressed. It is plain that Nathan does not think very highly of most of our boasted industrial civilization but he does not bore us with saying much about it. He gets his effects by far subtler means.

Keys That Unlock The Unknown

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

REMEMBER one room at school in which it was written in varicolored chalk over the space reserved for arithmetic, "There Is No Such Word As Can't!"

We were having denominate numbers and fractions and the combinations certainly needed the fortifying maxim that rose above it—all that and more. But even then it failed, for I have a distinct recollection of laying my head down on my desk one fine day, and giving way to shameless tears. Whatever the colored chalk had to say about it, it was wrong. For I couldn't!

I had passed examinations in algebra and geometry years later before I discovered what denominate numbers meant. No one had ever taken the trouble to say to me,

"If I say 'five,' it's a number, but if I say 'five apples,' that's a denominate number."

All that struck my poor addled brain was that I was having a lot of problems with a long, horrible name and with that attitude I developed a complex and mental confusion that only increased as time wore on.

I remember that teacher well. I adored her. Her name was Miss Little and she was pretty and she had us out to her house at a picnic. There was a young man there whom she called John and I remember being very resentful of "John." When she eventually married him or not I do not know. Very likely she did, however, or someone else and has forgotten all about "There Is No Such Word As Can't" and denominate numbers and fractions.

But I remember. And I wish she had mentioned the apples.

I often wonder how much good teaching is going to waste because some simple, clear explanation of work at the beginning of a term has not been made.

One time I heard a teacher call on a boy to parse a certain noun. He got up, started lamely several times and stopped in confusion. The teacher seemed surprised.

"Can't you parse that? It's very easy," she said kindly.

"No, I can't." He sat down. Instantly fifty hands went up.

I knew very well that the child hadn't an idea what parsing meant. There had been some mental confusion at the beginning without doubt. He may have been away the first day, but at any rate there never had been conveyed to his perplexed mind the simple statement, "Parsing is telling the noun's story."

Parents can often find these little keys that unlock the great unknown if busy teachers cannot put their fingers on the trouble. So much rests on a clear beginning.

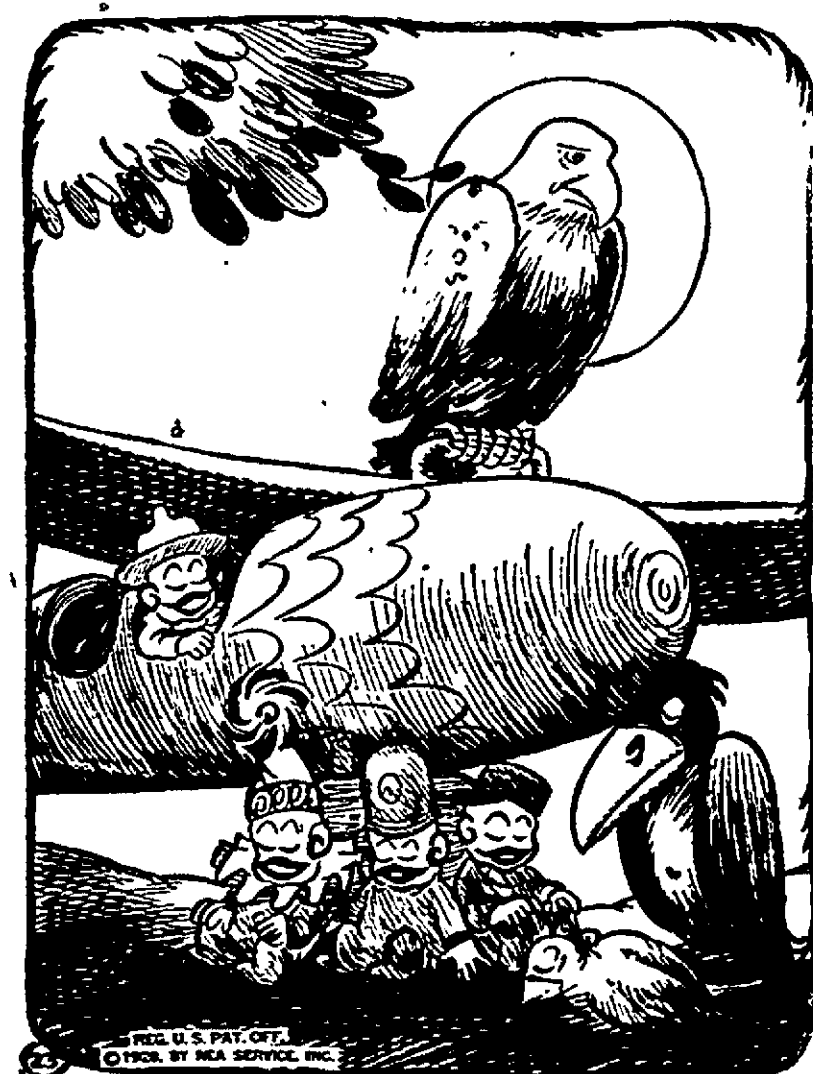

Then, there won't be any such word as "can't."

MATERIALS and the birds had sought, and after hours of seeking, brought out into the little plane, was fine as it could be. They built the seats and other things and still had plenty for the winch. "When this is finished," Clowdy said, "Let's all fly out to sea."

"It's been a long time since we've been out of the water. Let's begin to plan a trip of some sort, while we're working on our plane. Of course you other 'Tinies know that if you have no place to go, this work we're doing on the ship will be quite in vain."

"Oh, hush!" cried Scouty. "That's such a silly plan. You talk too much. Before we plan on anything we'd best complete our work. Of course we'll have a heap of fun, but not before the plane is done. You talk instead of helping us. You merely want to shirk."

"cause someone shouted, "This is sick. The body of the plane looks great. We all can climb inside." And then a bird, in friendly tone, said, "No, you Tinies fly alone. You are the ones we made it for, so you'll be the ones to ride."

"They all kept working till the sun went down. Then Copy cried, "We're done. The plane is all together, but there's one thing I would know. It has a body, tail and wings, and oh, a lot of other things. But, see, there is no engine in the plane to make it go."

A sparrow then said, "Now, don't fret. The best surprise is coming yet. It's just a little secret, but I think that it will keep until tomorrow. Then I'll tell you what it is. You'll think it swell." And then the birds and Tinies all flopped down and went to sleep.

(The big surprise comes in the next story.)

Making a Name for yourself

THE NEW Saint Sinner By Anne Austin

Tony stretched flat on the long, fragrant grass. "Woof! First regular grub I've had in a coon's age. What's eating you, Sandy? Honest, you've been as gabby as an old lady at a sewing bee. Been polite to me, too!"

Sandy Ross grinned, his bronze-and-green freckled eyes narrowing upon her. "Yeah?" he drawled, in his old manner.

"Attabo!" Tony applauded. "Welcome home, Sandy. Come on, confess to Tony!" she prodded maliciously.

"Practising," Sandy admitted in his laconic fashion. "Mom's been razzing me. Thinks I oughta shirk around some. This guy Lindbergh's made aviators popular, drat him, and Mom wants me to take advantage of the boom and get married."

The flush darkened on his weather-beaten, lean face.

"Yeah?" Tony mimicked her old playmate, champion and father confessor.

"Yeah," Sandy nodded, "but I'm not having any, thanks. Too much trouble. My tongue's all tired out and I was polite to you only an hour or so."

Tony shouted with glee. "Poor Sandy! But maybe it wouldn't be so hard if you weren't just practising—if you were in love with the gal. I mean, I can't imagine you in love, Sandy—and I give you warning I'd scratch the eyes out of the girl if you were."

"Yeah? Maybe I feel the same about this patent-leather-haired sheik the papers say you're going to marry. Said you wasn't last Sunday," he reminded her, his mouth tightening grimly.

Her beautiful face, like a just-opened flower in the morning sun, became as somber as his own. "I'm not going to marry him, Sandy. Peg got me in a jam over this beastly engagement. I never said I'd marry Dick in the first place, but he ran home and told his parents and Mrs. Talbot. Peg thought it over for a couple of days without asking me point blank if I was going to marry the Talbot. Then he phoned the papers an announcement. Poor Peg! I've been an awful trial to her since I got home from Bradley and she figured that a printed announcement would make the engagement as legal as a marriage ceremony. Of course she was pleased at the idea of being a mother-in-law to a Talbot, and she forgot to ask me how I felt about Dick."

WOMEN SELECT WORKERS FOR SPEECH WORK

Washington (AP)—Two working women, one a ticket seller and the other a restaurant worker, have been selected by the National Woman's party as speakers on the equal rights issue in the election campaign.

Mrs. Mary Murray of Brooklyn is a subway ticket seller and Mrs. Frances Roberts of New York works in a restaurant. Both took an active part in winning suffrage for women.

They will go out as speakers along with such prominent women as Mrs. Harvey Wiley, Mrs. Richard Wainwright of Washington, Mrs. Clarence M. Smith of New York, and others.

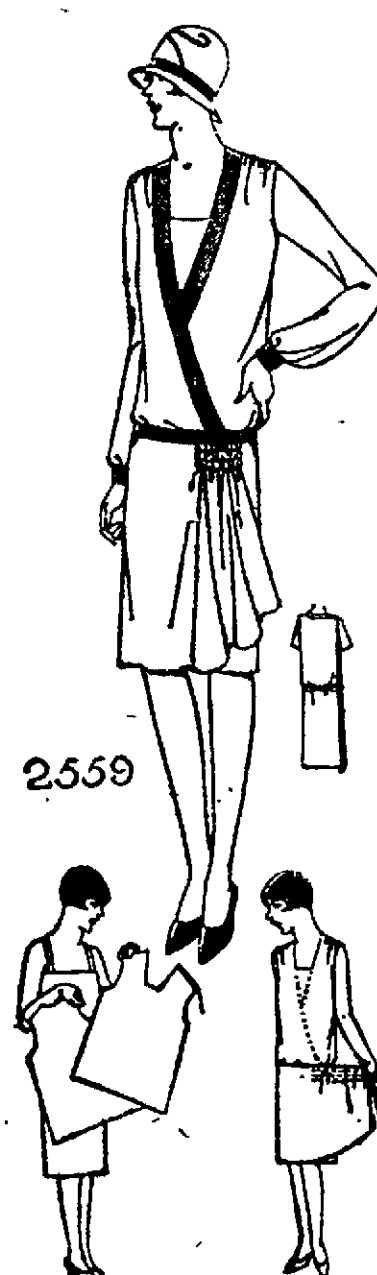

"They are two of the most effective workers we will send into the campaign," says Miss Maud Younger, in charge of election activities of the Woman's party.

kisses me," Tony confessed honestly. "Guess I'm a beastly little rotter, Sandy. Just want thrills and freedom. Peg played the fool handsomely. Sent two hundred invitations to an engagement tea. Ugh! They'll be delivered this morning. Saw Dick last night. He surprised me by being the perfect little gentleman—released me from the engagement. Gotta do a Houdini out of those tea invitations, the printed announcements, and everything. Take me up in your plane and do a nose dive with me straight to earth, won't you Sandy—please!" she concluded flippantly, but her voice broke on a sob.

"Gonna take you home—now," Sandy announced grimly. "Best way to get a nasty job done is to do it. And cut out this fool talk about killing yourself, kid," he scolded her, gruffly. But he offered his hands for her to pull herself up by and did not release hers until she could return him grin for grin, her Byronic head thrown back with a gallant gesture of defiance.

Evening Wraps Longer With Uneven Hemlines

A black and white evening coat of Ton velvet.

This is Bendel's gold and green lame evening coat.

New York—Evening wraps have succumbed to the irregular hemline that evening gowns made popular.

Of course it was inevitable, for there always was something incongruous about a dipping chiffon frock under a straight line coat.

But, now that evening coats, capes and wraps have capitulated, they emphasize a longer line everywhere. The evening coat this winter will suggest extreme skirt length, whether it does so by dipping sides, a train back or merely a longer line all around.

VELVETEEN POPULAR Velveteen is having a popularity in evening coats. Indeed velveteen is given very smart lines in one white evening coat with wide, kimono sleeves edged in sable, with a scarf collar of the velveteen that hangs its ends clear to the ankle length at the rear of the garment.

Velvet, however, is the most authentic fabric for evening wraps. Lames are always luxurious in coats or capes. Fur trimmed, they have the ability to look extremely distinguished and individual. Gold and silver lames are especially good this winter, shot with color and enriched by four and lined with sumptuous satin or velvet. All the fabrics used for evening coats have a sheen this year.

VOGUE FOR DOLMANS The coat is much better than the cape. But dolmans are having a vogue. There is something restrained and ladylike about a dolman. With a shirred collar of self material, one can achieve beauty and charm.

Browns are popular for evening wraps, but the live, golden browns, or the ruddy-red ones, not just dead, dull brown. One of extreme beauty is a caramel colored brown velvet with apricot velvet pointing a deep yoke under a shirred collar and the same points repeating up the sleeves, from shirred, wide cuffs.

Collars, hemlines and sleeves are the important things in wraps this winter, after color and fabric are chosen. I show today two versions of the latest things for winter.

Rich and elegant is a gold and bright green lame evening coat, with brown dyed-skunk fur for short collar and shallow cuffs on the flaring sleeves.

The cut of this coat is the epitome of skill and grace. It starts out in straight-line fashion but at hip-length across the back and both sides a graduated, gathered flounce is applied. This gives the graceful train back that is its most distinctive feature. The fur

A cream soup is suggested for dinner menu because the meat course is light. However the cream soup and pumpkin pie make up for the light croquettes and bring the meal into balance. Raw carrot straws and crisp celery could be served to advantage.

PUMPKIN PIE One cup sifted pumpkin, 3-4 cup brown sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, 1-2 teaspoon ginger, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 2 cups milk. Pastry: 3-4 cup flour 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon baking powder, 4 tablespoons lard, 2 tablespoons cold water. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Rub in lard with tips of fingers or pastry blender. Add water, cutting in with a knife. Roll on a slightly floured molding board into a sheet between 1-8 and 1-4 inch thick. Fit in pan and crimp edge.

The pumpkin should be cooked until dry before rubbing through colander. Add sugar, flour, salt and spices to pumpkin and mix thoroughly. Beat egg well and add milk to first mixture. Mix well and turn into prepared pie pan. Bake, in a hot oven for ten minutes, reduce heat and bake 50 minutes longer. About 375 degrees F. is a good temperature for long slow baking.

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

University Women Meet This Week

The first meeting of the Appleton chapter of the American Association of University Women after the summer recess will be held at 1 o'clock next Saturday afternoon when the members will meet for luncheon at the home of Miss Mable Wolter, W. Spencer-st. As in previous years the proceeds of the luncheon will be used for the program fund.

The organization has for its aim higher education for women. It is an international organization, with an international, national and local program. The Appleton chapter last year, with some outside aid, gave three Lawrence college scholarships to girls of Appleton High school. The committee on membership has been at work trying to reach all women eligible to membership. Any woman who is a graduate of an accredited college may call. Miss Wolter to make reservation for the luncheon.

Miss Carrie Moran is president of the association and other officers are: Miss Ruth Mielke, vice president; Mrs. H. H. Helble, recording secretary; Mrs. Frank Wheeler, corresponding secretary; Miss Dorothy Fenton, treasurer. The meetings which are held the second Saturday of each month, combine a social time with the program. Members of the executive board include the officers and Mrs. Fred Poppe, Miss Margaret Abraham, Miss Blanche McCarthy, Miss Ruth Becker, Mrs. George Nixon, Mrs. Elmer Jennings, Miss Elsie Koppin, Mrs. George Wood, and Miss Alice Dildorfer.

DR. BAKER IS CHURCH SPEAKER

Dr. Louis Baker of the foreign language department of Lawrence college, spoke at the student get-together at the Congregational church Sunday afternoon. Dr. Baker told of his experiences abroad. The students were welcomed to the church by the Rev. H. E. Peabody, after which a musical program was presented. Miss Ernestine Johnson sang, Russell Danberg presented a piano solo, and Miss Maxine Fraser read.

How To Play Bridge

BY Milton C. Work

The use of the strength convention taking out partner's No Trump with a Major suit necessarily eliminates Major weakness take-outs because they would mislead the No Trumpers. Partnerships never prosper when their bids may indicate either of two very different holdings. The Major suit take-out, to be effective, must show definitely either strength or weakness; it is much more important to have it show strength, consequently weakness take-outs never should be made in Major suits except with extreme length—generally seven cards or more.

A few examples may help to clarify the situation. Suppose South bid one No Trump and West passed, what should North do with the following hands?

No 1 ♠ K-Q-10-X-X ♥ A-X-X ♦ A-X-X ♣ A-X	No 2 ♠ K-10-X-X-X ♥ A-X-X ♦ A-X-X ♣ X-X
No 3 ♠ J-10-X-X-X ♥ A-X-X ♦ K-J-X ♣ A-X	No 4 ♠ J-10-X-X-X ♥ A-X-X ♦ A-X-X ♣ X-X
No 5 ♠ J-10-X-X-X ♥ A-X-X ♦ A-X-X ♣ A-X	No 6 ♠ J-10-X-X-X ♥ A-X-X ♦ A-X-X ♣ X-X

With No. 1, bid two Spades. The Spade suit has practically the minimum strength for a Major take-out.

With No. 2, bid two Spades. The Spade suit is under the take-out.

PATIENTS WARNED NOT TO LEAVE BED TOO SOON

Madison—(AP)—The state board of health Monday issued a warning against patients leaving their sickbeds too early.

Rest in the treatment of illness usually constitutes one essential for prompt recovery, the board announcement said. "To disregard orders to stay in bed is often attended with real risk to the patient's future health." This injunction was given in the state board's health advice for the treatment of influenza, pneumonia, etc., and applies to most other types of sickness as well, the announcement said.

These stations are arranging a medley of college songs as one of the main features in the program.

NEW DRAPERIES for a FEW CENTS By Mae Martin

All of us realize nowadays how bright colored draperies seem to invite people in, and how warm touches of color in spreads, cushions and runners help to make us love our own surroundings.

No woman need deny herself these touches of cheer, because they can easily be had at the expense of a few cents and a little planning. Curtains that are faded or drab in color can be made bright and pleasing with a package or so of Diamond Dyes. Then spreads, covers, runners, etc. can be tinted or dyed to match. Anyone can do it. Tinting with Diamond Dyes is as easy as bluing, and dyeing takes just a little more time. Brilliant new colors appear like magic, right over the old, faded colors. Diamond Dyes give true, fadeless colors. They are the kind of dyes used when the cloth was made. Only Diamond Dyes produce perfect results. Insist on them and save disappointment.

My new book, "Color Craft," gives hundreds of dollar-saving suggestions for beautifying your home and clothes. 64 pages, fully illustrated in colors. It's FREE. Just write Mae Martin, Home Service Department, Diamond Dyes, Burlington, Vermont.

HIGH SCHOOL GRID SQUAD DROPS 6-0 GAME TO LAWRENCE

Weight of College Freshmen Wears Out Younger Players Late in Tilt

Kaukauna — With four regulars out of the lineup, Coach Elmer Ott's Orange and Black high school grid-der were defeated 6 to 0 by the heavier Lawrence college freshmen here Saturday afternoon. The visitors scored the winning touchdown in the latter part of the fourth quarter on a long pass from Sheer to Vander Bloemen. The local players out of the lineup were Esler and Luedtke, halves, and Main and Creveier, linemen. Esler, Main and Creveier were unable to play because each is nursing a crippled leg. Two of the men are hobbling about on crutches while Creveier is unable to attend school for the past few days.

Both teams showed plenty of fight and pep, and neither team made much yardage against the other during the entire game. Kaukauna was playing with two utility half backs who had not seen action before Saturday's game. The small crowd which attended the game was well satisfied with the showing the youngsters made against the husky Lawrence men.

Lawrence tried passing continually during the game but was comparatively unsuccessful until the scoring pass in the last quarter. Both teams used a smashing attack during most of the game. Froelich was the bright light in the Lawrence line. He distinguished himself by getting a large share of tackles and was the principal obstacle to Kaukauna's passing attack. Time after time he broke through the Kaw line to tackle the passer before the ball left his hands.

FROSH CAPTAIN INJURED
Calhoun, captain and quarterback of the Lawrence frosh, seemed to be the most dangerous man at the start of the game. He ran the Kaw end ragged for long gains until he wrenched his foot and had to be taken from the game. Sheer also showed up well in the Lawrence line. Captain May Miller was the crowd yard gainer for the Kawmen. He showed up exceptionally well and he had to bear most of the brunt of the game in order to help out his green half backs. Francis "Strings" Landreman, center, was one of the chief reasons that the opposing team failed in its smashing attack. Robert Vanevanhoven, a newcomer, showed up in his first game at tackle.

Kaukauna kicked off to the Frosh who were stopped after making a few yards. Kaukauna then carried the ball into dangerous territory and for a while it looked as if they were going to score. A penalty for holding, however, lost them 15 yards and the chance to score in the quarter was ended.

Neither team threatened to score in the next quarter, both squads preferring to play defensive. The Kaw line was slow in charging and the Freshmen backfield was slow in starting. Consequently both teams were in the middle of the field most of the time. The half ended in a scoreless tie.

PASS-WINS GAME
The third quarter was a repetition of the second with both teams struggling hard and playing even. In the fourth quarter the weight of the heavy Lawrence team began to tell on the locals. Although they fought hard they started to lose ground. Sheer passed 15 yards to Vander Bloemen who ran about 10 yards for a touchdown. The extra point was missed. Lawrence kicked off and a bad pass from the center on the fourth down gave the college boys the ball on the Kaukauna 5 yard line. A smash netted them three yards and the game ended with the ball on Kaukauna's two yard line.

LEGION GRIDDERS BEAT CLINTONVILLE FOR FIRST VICTORY

Ashe Coached Squad Downs Four Wheel Drive Squad by 12 to 0 Score

Kaukauna—Coach William Ashe's American Legion football team won its first game of the year Sunday afternoon, downing the Four Wheel Drive of Clintonville at that city by a score of 12 to 0. Tillie, of Wrightstown, who played at full back, started for the Kaw team, smashing the Clintonville line for many gains, playing a fine game on the offense, and in the fourth quarter intercepting a pass and galloping through the opposing team 65 yards for a touchdown.

Kaukauna's first touchdown came after Hovde punted to the Clintonville five yard line in the second quarter. Clintonville fumbled the ball and Anderson, Kaw end, recovered it behind the goal line. Anderson played a good game at end. The game gave many of the boys a chance to show their football wares. Hovde's punts were one of the features, and they helped much, as the Four Wheel Drive team was strong and Kaukauna was forced to punt often. Miller, who played quarterback for the locals, showed splendid field work and ran the team in fine style.

Walsh and McClune showed up well for the Clintonville team. Many times they broke away from the Kaw linemen for good gains. Schnorr, quarterback, also played good game for the Four Wheel Drives.

Clintonville kicked off to Kaukauna. Both teams did little passing and play was chiefly directed at line plunges. Tillie broke away from the Clintonville team for a 25 yard gain. Neither team scored during the quarter. Kaukauna had the opposing team backed near their own goal posts most of the time during the second quarter. Clintonville fumbled behind its own goal line and "Haba" Anderson recovered it, giving Kaukauna its first touchdown.

Kaukauna kicked to Clintonville in the second half. The Kawmen kept the ball in dangerous territory, but the quarter was fast and furious. Kaukauna got another break in the fourth quarter when Tillie intercepted a pass and ran three-fourths the length of the field for a touchdown. Both points after the touchdowns were missed. Both times the ball hit the goal posts.

LEGION MEMBERS WILL ORGANIZE PIN LEAGUE

Kaukauna—Members of the Kaukauna American Legion will meet at 7:30 Monday evening in Legion hall to organize a bowling league. It is expected that eight teams will be formed. Six teams already are listed, with Dale Andrews, L. Brenzel, Henry Olm, H. Treptow, Fred Olm and Edward Haas acting as captains. Two more will be formed Monday if enough interest is manifested.

WISCONSIN MAY FETE STATE SECRETARIES

Madison —(P)—The 1930 annual meeting of the national association of Secretaries of State, may be held in Madison, Theodore Damman, vice president of the organization, and Wisconsin's state department head, said on his return from the national conference held in the Black Hills.

Mr. Damman was elected vice president of the organization when he refused to accept the nomination as president and moved that all of the officers be re-elected.

The 1929 convention of the organization took place at Atlantic City, and the year following Mr. Damman was asked to have the state secretaries in the Wisconsin capital.

Shortly before Mr. Damman's return, M. A. Freedy, state insurance commissioner, left the capital to attend a meeting of insurance department heads of the various states. This convention also, is being held in the summer home in which President Coolidge spent his 1927 summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Roberts and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Fernal were visitors in Madison Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Specht, Mr. and Mrs. John Gerhart, Misses Olive and Shirley Jane Gerhart and Victor Fisher spent Sunday at a hunting bee at the home of George Fisher in Milwaukee.

Misses Ethel and Agnes Dean were callers in Hilbert Sunday.

Oldest Village Marshal

JOHN W. DEY

Black Creek Marshal Is Oldest In Badger State

BY W. F. WINSEY

BLACK CREEK—To John W. Dey, the guardian of peace in this village, belongs the honor of being the oldest marshal, deputy sheriff, street commissioner, constable and janitor of a village hall, in this section of the state.

The holding of all these offices by a man 75 years old is a difficult task but Mr. Dey holds them all and neglects the duties of none of them.

Mr. Dey was appointed marshal of this village in 1914, six years after he made his home here, and has served continuously since his appointment. He does considerable work outside of the village in the capacity of constable and deputy sheriff.

On his appearance at the scene of a street brawl which is very rare in Black Creek or a family ruction, the disturbance subsides and the belligerents forget the nature of their grievances, shake hands and make up. At least, he has met with resistance but one. Several years ago, when attempting to arrest a Mexican on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, the foreigner opened up battle with the weapons that nature had given him. After several parries and passes the Mexican found the old man armed with a club too much for him and submitted to arrest as the most desirable alternative. A short time ago, Mr. Dey arrested a drunken man showing erratic bursts of speed on Highway 47, and had him safely lodged in the county jail in Appleton an hour after the arrest. Besides the usual pacifist work, Mr. Dey sometimes carries a gun. He has never used a gun in his work and hopes he may never be compelled to use one.

New Signal Glasses Are Found For Night Flying

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (Associated Press Science Editor)

Coming, N. Y. —(P)—Aviation's new night map of the United States, the network of lights, projected or existing, marking airports and airways, is developing some new needs in signaling and new forms for signal glasses.

Makers of glass have been asked to find special shades of color and to light familiar places in surprising ways. Viewed from above at night, such places not only are distorted by darkness, but the speed of the aviator requires lights which slower earthbound modes of transportation have not needed.

In one instance the laboratories of the Corning glass works have been asked to work on the lighting of radio antenna poles 60 to 90 feet tall. Lights can be placed on top of these aerial obstacles, but not without risk of interference with the antenna functions. Flood lights below are not altogether satisfactory, for they do not define the tops with sufficient brightness. One suggestion for a solution is the familiar three balls of the pawn shop, placed on top of the poles, guided and shaped to give a sufficient warning by reflected lights.

Another development is the zenith light, an arrangement of beams intended to penetrate to aviator several miles away, and guide him to the landing field. It was found that a merely powerful beacon was insufficient. The original beacon was a 24-inch mirror beam, which the aviators recognized at several miles, but they passed out of the main beam as they neared the light and reported difficulty in finding it again. The latest zenith light is a beam projected vertically by cylindrical bulbs eyes, with a beam spread of 180 degrees. This beacon rotates so that its effect is to show the aviator successively a fan-shaped light, then a chance to a vertical line of light and again the fan.

Ordinary poles about landing fields have produced another lighting problem. In its call for new glass shapes, the air industry is repeating the history of early railroad signaling. Many years ago it was found that reds, for railroad signal lights were not under all conditions showing a true red. Study developed a copper red glass, which revolutionized some phases of the glass industry of that day. Then were studied the railroad man's troubles in keeping snow and dirt from gathering in the grooves of his lantern glass. At that time the lantern lenses were on the outside face of the glass. How to place these lenses inside the lantern was solved, producing another revolution in glass making.

Durability to withstand bumps and heat were other developments of railroad days. Aviation is at present concentrating on producing new shapes out of the types of glass already in production.

GROUND SUPERVISOR AT U. OF W. HAS BIG JOB

Madison —(P)—Housekeepers who complain of too much to do may find consolation in the housekeeping job of the University of Wisconsin, in charge of A. F. Gallistel, superintendent of buildings and grounds. Gallistel has charge of 120 buildings and all of the equipment. He is not only housekeeper for the building on the campus at Madison but for all the experimental stations in the state, for the Extension building in Milwaukee, and for the Engineering camp at Devil's Lake.

The total value of the property which is under his care is $16,135,000. Nearly 300 employees assist the head housekeeper.

AMATEUR SCIENTISTS ARE WANING IN NUMBER

New York —(P)—The amateur in science in the United States, as distinguished from the individual whose profession is science, numbered 0.2 per cent of the total.

The figures are revealed in a biography of American Science by J. McKee Cattell and Jacques Cattell. They list about 13,500 scientists in this country. About 60 percent of these are teachers, 15 per cent in research institutions, 12 per cent government employees and 10 per cent in applied science.

All this is in contrast to Europe, where much of the scientific work has been done by "amateurs," although it is estimated that the number of these amateurs in Europe is decreasing.

100 WOMEN ATTEND PARTY AT CHILTON

Knights of Columbus and American Legion Auxiliary Elect Officers

Chilton — Mesdames Arthur Connell, John Davis McCormack, John Ortlieb and Philatus Ortlieb entertained at bridge at the Masonic Temple on Thursday evening, 26 tables being in play. Prizes were awarded to the following: Mesdames Herbert Ortlieb, Edgar Puer, Anna Osthoff, Louis Horst, Cyril Pfeffer, A. S. Hipke, Gerhardt Jensen, Anna Parnon, and the Misses Edna and Mary McMullen.

Mrs. Michael Nielsen of Kaukauna visited her sister Mrs. Herman Voss on Thursday. She also attended the Masonic Temple in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Guido L. Weber left for Madison Saturday to attend the Wisconsin-Notre Dame football game.

The Service Guild of the Presbyterian church was entertained at the church hall on Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Gilbert Westphal and Mrs. Arthur Koeh.

Miss Marion Albert and Elsie Tranel attended the football game at Madison on Saturday.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Reinhold went to Madison Saturday spend the week end with their daughters the Misses Madeline and Dorothy, who are students in the University of Wisconsin.

Miss Leone Lampert spent the week end at her home in Neenah. At a regular meeting of the American Legion auxiliary on Thursday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Herman Winkel; first vice president, Mrs. A. F. Stein; second vice president, Mrs. Peter Endres; treasurer, Mrs. William Aebischer; historian, Mrs. Henry Baltz; the officers will be installed on Nov. 1.

The Knights of Columbus recently elected the following officers for the ensuing year: grand knight, George Gog; his deputy grand knight, William Jaeger; chancellor, Cyril Eldridge; recorder, Daniel Flatley; treasurer, Henry Schommer; advocate, Anthony Madler; warden, George Bruckner; outside guards, Henry Juchem and Henry Hein; inside guard, John Anhalt; trustee for three years, William Bornemann.

The officers will be installed on Oct. 15 by District Deputy Joseph Kronzer of Oshkosh.

PICKPOCKETS BUSY AT GAMES

Pickpockets reaped a harvest at the Olympic Games at Amsterdam, according to reports that have emerged from there following the contests. One story that is going the rounds in Europe is that an athlete, called away for a minute from a cafe table, left a goldmounted walking stick behind, with a note: "This stick belongs to the champion heavy-weight boxer of the Olympic Games. He is coming back." On his return the cane had vanished, and another note replaced his own. It read: "Your stick has been taken by the champion sprinter of the Olympic Games. He is not coming back."

BEER-TASTER TEST TOTALER

Edward Hipwell, aged 83, who has been appointed assessor for Billingsgate, England, is a taster. His duties entitle him to enter every ale house and tavern within the ward, and test the quality of the beer. Hipwell declares the beer of Billingsgate does not need his testing. If there is anything wrong with it, he says, the language of Billingsgate would apply the remedy.

TITLED WOMEN DEAL IN DOGS

Since the craze for dog racing has spread in England, many women of title have taken up the rearing, buying and selling canines. At a recent large sale in London many women figured as buyers and sellers of greyhounds. Lady Chesham disposed of two dogs for $400, and another woman purchased three, including a puppy, for $365. At the Moorvale Kennels, in Buckinghamshire, girl students are proving in many ways more successful with the highly nervous greyhounds than men. One successful woman student has just opened boarding kennels where she will train racers for their owners.

MILK SUPPLY CONTROL ASKED

Government control of the milk supply of Australia has been asked by country milk suppliers. Representatives have pointed out to Premier Eavin that it would mean cheaper milk, less costly distribution, greater sales and price fixation, which would benefit both producer and consumer. The Premier is preparing a bill along the lines suggested.

KILLED AMERICANS COMMON

Americans who insist on wearing the kilt while visiting Scotland are becoming such a common sight that the Scotch pay little heed to it. In the past some of the costumes of the visitors have been so loud that the true-Scotchmen chuckled, but apparently they are becoming accustomed to the way foreigners use the kilt.

CHINESE VETERAN OF CIVIL WAR ON VISIT TO HOMELAND

Edward Cahota Is Thought to Be Only Full-blooded Chinaman Volunteer

Gloucester, Mass. —(P)—Edward Day Cahota, reputed to be the only full-blooded Chinese to enlist in the union armies in the Civil war, came to Gloucester this summer to revive boyhood memories.

The National Tribune, organ of the veterans of the Grand Army, of the Republic, is authority for the statement that Cahota was the only Chinese to enlist for Civil war service. The same authority states that he was the only one of his race ever to enlist in the American regular army up to the time of the world war.

Cahota claims to be a Gloucesterite, for his association with this old seaport goes back more than 70 years. In 1857 Capt. Sargent S. Day skipper of the last of the old square-riggers sailing out of Gloucester, was on a voyage to the treaty ports of China. While there he took on a Chinese cabin boy of eight years who proved so likeable that the captain adopted him under the name of Edward Day Cahota.

That was how Cahota reached Gloucester. He was only 15 when, in 1864, he stretched his age and won enlistment in the army. He was assigned to Company I, 23rd Regiment under Capt. Edward Story of Gloucester.

At the battle of Cold Harbor a members of the company, William E. Love, now living in Marblehead, was wounded. Cahota took him to the rear to an ambulance station and then rejoined the fighting line.

In recent years, when members of the old 23rd regiment have had their reunions, Love has been the only member of Company I to answer roll-call. He has responded as "the only surviving member of Company I."

When Cahota learned that Love was in Marblehead, somewhat ill he drove to the fellow-veteran's home to greet him.

Cahota went west after the Civil war, enlisted with the "regulars" and remained with the army 30 years, until 1894, when he was retired.

PROPOSED CENTRAL INVESTMENT BOARD IS RULED ILLEGAL

Attorney General Says Constitution Prevents Forming Suggested Body

Madison—(AP)—A proposal of the 1927 legislature's interim committee on investment of trust funds that a central investment board be formed to supervise investment of all monies held in trust by the state will probably never reach the legislature as the attorney general has held that it would be unconstitutional as far as supervision over investment of land commission funds.

State Senator H. E. Bolt, chairman of the committee asked the attorney general these questions:

(1). Can the legislature, under the provisions of the constitution authorizing it to prescribe the manner in which the commissioners of public lands shall invest the school funds provide that the commissioners shall invest these funds in such securities as the proposed central investment board may recommend?

(2). Can the legislature provide that the central board shall make all collections of principal and interest of the loans from the state school funds for the land commission?

(3). Is there constitutional objection to a law providing that the proposed central body shall make and handle all investments from the school funds, when so requested by the commissioners of lands?

(4). Can the same plan suggested above be applied to the so-called "university trust funds" which the donors have placed under control of the board of regents?

(5). Can the legislature, by amending the statutes, provide that money hereafter donated to the university as trust funds be invested by the proposed central board?

(6). Can the legislature provide that the teachers retirement fund and other investment funds not governed by the constitution be controlled by the central board?

The attorney general said definitely and cited law and supreme court decisions to prove his points, that the constitution sets up the land commission to govern the school funds and loans and that their power cannot be abrogated or amended by the state law so that the proposed central board could not govern the school funds.

The second question was therefore answered in the negative, also. But Hugh A. Minahan, deputy attorney general, author of the opinion answered the third question in the affirmative; even if the land commissioners ask the proposed central body to take over the work it may NOT do it, because this would be delegation of constitutionally-given power.

On the fourth question, the answer also was "no" and on question number 5, the law office held that the legislature can provide that future donations to the university can be brought under the central board's power.

The opinion held that the interim committee's conceived board might have control of the teachers retirement fund and minor funds not otherwise governed by the constitution or other bodies, as this fund is created by the legislature and its control subject to the will of the Assembly and Senate.

STAGE AND SCREEN

"TWO LOVERS" THE LAST CO-STARRING FILM OF COLMAN AND BANKY

It becomes increasingly clear to the stubbornly skeptical observer that the team of Colman and Banky is slated for final and irrevocable dissolution. Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky have attained the point where each is an individual star in his and her own right. "Two Lovers," the Samuel Goldwyn production, which opens a 5 day engagement at the Elite Theatre today, is the last photoplay in which the famous pair may be seen together.

There is a history comparable with that of Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, differing only in that those two never thought of effecting a separation.

It all began with "The Dark Angel." Does the audience remember back that far? In this they were a pair in modern England cruelly kept from each other by a minor catastrophe generally referred to as the "World War." Next was "The Winning of Barbara Worth," whose locale moved all the way out to Arizona and its justly notorious deserts.

The great American public had as yet no certain means of identifying the team beyond the knowledge that they invariably appeared as true lovers whose course ran anything but smoothly. So someone conceived the positively inspired notion of presenting them in a costume story. "The Night of Love" came to town. Strong men, women and women threw their bonnets out of the nearest exit. America's exponents of amorous art, as achieved through the restraint of decorative clothing, had come up.

Very soon after that "The Magic Flame" was revealed to a palpitant public, who had already decided exactly what they wanted from Colman and Banky and who were getting it on an elaborate scale.

Then just as everything seemed to be set for a long embroiled future, "Two Lovers" was flashed on the Embassy screen in New York simultaneously with the general announcement that no more would the eyes of the universe be fastened on the embraces of Ronald and Vilma. Tears were shed all over the place, but no one could be found to deny that the final film was a gorgeously impressive one with which to close another chapter of cinematic history.

The first American passenger cruises around the world came out in 1910. During the present season, ten such cruises were announced in addition to one regular round the world service.

Al Brings Smiles to Vets

For two hours during his visit to St. Paul, Minn., Al Smith forgot the glare of bands and the shouts of his Democratic followers while he visited the World War veterans' hospital at Fort Snelling. Above he is shown with Arthur Phelps, bed-ridden since the battle of St. Mihiel. Below Al is watching the hospital checker champs fight it out. He then played Patrick Meehan, right, and won the game after a half hour's tussle.

England Tries To Solve Unemployment Question

London—(AP)—England's unemployment situation grows steadily worse while other countries of Europe are forging ahead to a brighter future.

Expert financial physicians are considering what is best to do for this sore spot on John Bull's business anatomy. Some 1,237,000 persons are now looking hopelessly about for positions here, although a year ago that number was under a million. This is almost four per cent of the population of England.

The hope that unemployment would be merely a temporary phenomenon now seems untenable. The currency disorders of Europe have been pretty well ironed out, and the foreign price is narrowing. But nevertheless unemployment continues.

The reason seems to be that there are industries here which can never again in normal times absorb the number of men which once was employed by them. According to the report of the industrial transference board, just issued, there are at least 500,000 surplus miners who cannot be re-employed in mining. The board says, moreover, that there are 100,000 unemployed in shipbuilding, iron and steel and heavy engineering, few of whom can hope to regain their old positions, no matter how good business should become.

Three solutions for the serious unemployment problem have been advanced. One has been accepted by government, one rejected and one neither accepted nor rejected. The first involves the transferring of unemployed workmen from their particular section of England to another where they will stand more chance of employment, or to the dominions. The government, if it accepts the report of the Transference Board, will assist the workmen by loans in setting up their establishments elsewhere.

The second plan is to impose a general protective tariff to increase profits in stricken industries. The "Economist" calls this a suicidal policy. Winston Churchill, chancellor of conservative members of parliament who urged protection: "We ought not to contemplate any fundamental reversal of the fiscal system upon which the whole industrial and economic structure of this country is erected and with which it is profoundly interwoven."

The third idea is to institute large municipal and national works, such as roadmaking, harbor and dock building and regional planning of cities. Germany and one or two other countries have tried this plan with considerable success.

STUDENTS IN WAR AGAINST WASTE PAPER

A war against discarded gum wrappers, candy bags, peanut shucks and other refuse has been instituted by the children of Lincoln school. Each morning before school begins the boys and girls gather all the rubbish in the Lincoln school yard with spiked sticks made by the boys of the school.

The children are using a plea to townspeople who go through the school grounds on their way to and from town and to those who park cars near the school to cooperate in the effort to keep the school grounds free from waste material. The condition is especially serious at Lincoln school because of the proximity of the school to the theatre and post office.

The faculty committee at the head of the clean-up campaign is composed of Misses Lee, Cusick, Emma Fynn, and Lois Sawtelle.

START SURVEY OF U. S. CREDIT SITUATION

A survey of the credit situation in the country is now being undertaken by the department of commerce, according to information received by Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the local chamber of commerce. The purpose of the survey is to ascertain the real situation in the country as regards credit and to put down many erroneous reports which may become dangerous to business conditions in the country.

Credit surveys forms have been sent to many retail companies, according to the chamber's information and no doubt many have been received by Appleton retailers. The report requests information on the general practices of each organization relative to the extension of credit, actual figures on business transactions last year where credit and cash sales were concerned, bad debts and how sales and payments vary during the 12 months of the year.

Floating universities are now a regular feature from America and in addition hundreds of Americans are sending their children to the finishing schools of Switzerland, France, England and Germany.

Peking Is Dying City Since Capital Moved

Peking—(AP)—Colorful Peking is in the doldrums. The ancient city is not what it was before the capital was shifted to Nanking.

Shop after shop has been closing for weeks. When a customer enters a store these days he is greeted by four or five clerks. In two months 3,913 shops suspended business, the Chinese economic bulletin estimates. Perhaps a fifth have started up again.

In the streets there are a score or more rickshaws for every likely patron. Coolies engage in fist fights at even the prospect of a fare.

The two principal hotels catering to foreigners have been hard hit by the slump. Tourists are seen but seldom owing to the interrupted railroad service, and there are very few representatives of foreign business firms coming to Peking now with the hopes of gaining contracts.

In the "good old days" Peking was one of the brilliant capitals of the orient. There were men here with unlimited expense accounts from all the great manufacturing centers of the world, representatives of the steel interests of the United States and Britain, American tobacco concerns, Krupps, many of them polyglots who did a great deal of entertaining and who entertained their friends and Chinese officials with gossip from all four corners of the earth.

There were receptions and dances every afternoon and evening. Now a reception of almost any kind is a red letter day indeed, and there are dances but seldom.

Not only has the name Peking, meaning "northern capital," been switched to Peking, "northern peace," but all streets with a monarchical flavor in their titles have been given names with a more republican connotation.

One of the first to have its name changed was Wang Lu Chieh, a shopping thoroughfare, known to Americans as Morrison street because in Chinese it had reference to the palace of a prince.

Such common and popular street names as Smelly Fish, Pig, Sheep, Tail and Barking Dog have not been molested.

Coolie blue has been painted over the old imperial red in sections of the walls surrounding the Forbidden City. From the roofs of several of the old imperial palaces a great many pieces of the yellow tile figures have been wrested from their positions of eminence and may be purchased now in numerous second-hand shops all prettily well filled with relics of the past which have been taken down in the gigantic task of wiping out signs of imperialism.

Nationalist blue is the color of the moment throughout the old city, and the new "Central Park," once the promenade of royalty and royalty only, may be entered now by Chinese as well as foreigners by payment of a few coppers at the gate.

8 FIRES RESULTED IN DAMAGE OF ONLY $100

Eight fires in Appleton during September caused damage estimated at $100, according to the monthly report of Louis M. Gillin, secretary to the fire chief. The department answered two fire alarms during the month. Two of the fires were caused when a house was struck by lightning and two others fires were started by children playing with matches, other fires were caused as follows: rubbish in burning, leaky gas burner and a fire in a barrel.

OFFICER WILL REPORT MILK BACTERIA COUNT

Starting with this month, the bacteria count in milk distributed by Appleton milk dealers and tested monthly by Theodore Sanders, deputy health officer, will be made public. Mr. Sanders has announced that he will have a company of men merely to make known the test of the milk and cream. The bacteria count also must be announced, in accordance with a city ordinance.

SEEK MEANS TO UNITE FORCES OF BUSINESS

Means by which the combined forces of business organizations can be utilized most effectively during the coming year to aid in solution of the nation's outstanding economic and legislative problems will be discussed at a conference of the chamber of commerce of the United States at Hot Springs, Ark., which opened Friday and will continue until Tuesday. No one from Appleton is attending the meeting, although local councilors, presidents and secretaries of local chambers of commerce and trade associations are present.

Business opinions of every section of the country as well as the opinion of the different lines of industry, finance and commerce are being brought together. Topics listed for discussion are street and highway traffic, trade relations, national wholesale conferences, state and local taxation and expenditures, federal reserve system, trade association procedure, fire waste and prevention, and sanitation of government departments and commercial enterprises.

Lawrence Holds Marquette Eleven To 19 To 7 Score

Powerful Viking Offense Scores In Fourth Quarter

Run Ball to 15 Yard Line in First Period; Gebert M. U. Star

Again we repeat, there's a football team in the making up there at Lawrence college and when it reaches its full strength in another week or two you'll see one of the smoothest working aggregations of grid-dere ever to step out on a Lawrence field.

Saturday afternoon that squad of Vikings about 24 in number glauced out across Whiting field and beheld a Golden Avalanche literally and figuratively, for it saw nearly 60 golden clad warriors representing Marquette university of Milwaukee.

But being Vikings, and men with strong hearts they never quailed but went out and played a great game of football although losing the decision 19 to 7.

Had there been one less man on that Golden Avalanche team the Vikings might have returned home with a victory for that lone half-back, "Swede" Gebert, rated as a possible all-American was all Marquette. He was in the game every minute, and he had to be for only his swirling, dashing drives caused the Vikings any trouble and kept the Marquette morale high when the Blue and white waded down the field to the 15 yard line in the first quarter and scored in the fourth.

Luck was not with the Vikings and neither were many of the home supporters. Only those persons most intimately attached to the team were willing to concede Lawrence a chance to score while all week long players heard derogative reports of their abilities and heard outrageous scores run up against them.

That the Blue and White accomplishments were not favored by the fact that the Vikings fumbled a few times at crucial moments and seldom regained possession of the ball. One such instance was the opening kickoff of the third quarter when Gib St. Mitchell took the oval and started down the field only to lose it when Marquette "kicked" the ball.

That break might have wrecked any team but not Vikings and they fought the Golden Avalanche to a standstill from then on.

Francis Bloomer, cocky, nervy little Lawrence field general was the spark plug in the Blue and White offense. He caused the Avalanche plenty of worry throughout the game for it seldom knew what he had up his sleeve or where he'd turn up the next time with the ball.

That he ran the ball to the Marquette 15 yard line in the first quarter and failed to put it across he wasn't to fail on a second attempt and his 11 yard dash around the Marquette right end behind perfect blocking for a touchdown was one of the greatest plays of the game.

Bloomer was out of the Oshkosh game a week ago because of an injured thumb and because of treatment, but his vigorous supporters had known all week he was tearing great holes in the frosh line and running the team with rare ability—but they wisely refrained from advertising the fact until Marquette had no chance to prepare for him.

But while Bloomer was a big factor in that game there were others who helped him put over his plays. In the backfield Captain Ralph Barrell ripped off plenty of yardage and he stopped the great Gebert on more than one occasion. Fischl's punting was entirely satisfactory and the old "Red" Humphrey was doing the blocking of his life. Sing praises too, to McInnis, Barnes, Rasmussen, and Brussa for when they went in to the fray there was no letting up of drive nor weakness in defense. Those boys all, can block, run interference and tackle, and for that give credit to the coaches, Clarence Rasmussen and Eddie Kotal.

Only two Lawrence linemen played the entire game. Laird and St. Mitchell, ends, but what those seven youngsters up their in that front wall, regardless of who they were, did to Marquette was a caution. Time after time they broke up that five man interference for Marquette ball carriers and when Lawrence was on the offensive it was a pleasure to see them set the husky Gold tackles back on their tails. As a matter of fact one of the young fellows was chucking over the sidelines and the ease with which they handled themselves.

SOX WHITEWASH CUBS AND WIN FIFTH GAME IN CITY SERIES PLAY

Chicago—(AP)—The White Sox have bounced back into the running again for the city baseball championship.

Behind hits pitching by Tommy Thomas and some airtight fielding, Lena Blackburne's hustling players took the fifth game of the series from their Cub rivals, 2 to 0, before 45,000 fans Sunday. Monday the series stood 3 to 2 in favor of the Cubs.

pass on his own 27 yard line. With Gebert leading the way the Avalanche charged down the field and Linscott took the ball over on a two yard plunge. The try for point failed.

In the third quarter came the Lawrence fumble and on a half dozen plays Gebert, twisted squirmed and drove through to a touchdown. But that was the end, although the Gold threatened on a couple occasions.

Lawrence's rally started in the fourth quarter when "Toughy" Vincent, a guard, on the first play after he had been put in the game, intercepted a Marquette pass on his own 45 yard line. Bloomer opened a passing attack as the ball was carried to the Marquette 30-yard line when Gebert intercepted a pass. Marquette punted to Fischl on his own 42 yard line. And then the Vikings started to function perfectly.

A pass took the ball to midfield, and Bloomer faked one to rattle off nine yards. Barrell was thrown for a loss and a pass Bloomer to Baird, who had crossed to the opposite side of the field, took the ball to the Marquette 15 yard line. Barrell hit the line for four yards and on the next play Bloomer scampered around the Marquette right end for 11 yards and a touchdown, his backs and linemen cutting down every Marquette man in sight. When St. Mitchell kicked the goal the Lawrence stands went wild—and how!

Touchdowns—Crowley, Linscott, Gebert, Bloomer. Kicks after touchdown—Linscott, St. Mitchell. Substitutions—Marquette, Kirkham for Smith, King for Campbell, A. Johnson for Kampine, A. Schumacher for Truscott, Hyde for Gibson, Mendelson for A. Schumacher, Briggs for Kirkham, Carney for Crowley, Gonyo for A. Johnson, J. Schumacher for Carney, Quasney for Mendelson, Mendelson for J. Schumacher, Linscott for Quasney, Kirkham for Briggs, Clancy for Padden, A. Johnson for Gonyo, Ehlert for Foster, Truscott for Vincent, A. Schumacher for Linscott, Schludde for Bultman, Lipich for Schludde, Washick for Al Schumacher, Glasheen for Griztmacher; Lawrence, Phenecio for Krohn, Rasmussen for Bloomer, Brussa for Barrell, Morton for Schauer, Packard for Voecks, Vincent for Ehlert, McInnis for Rasmussen, Humphrey, Barnes for Rasmussen, Schneller for Krohn, MacInnis for Bloomer. Officials—Referee, White (Wisconsin); umpire, Kahle (Michigan); field judge, Mee (Illinois); head linesman, Chamberlain (Michigan State).

Chicago—(AP)—Wisconsin's staggering triumph over Notre Dame and Michigan's defeat by Ohio Wesleyan in Saturday's inaugural battles supplied plenty of fuel for discussion in conference. Competition between teams settled back Monday, to the weary task of preparation for the conference race.

For the first time in more than a decade, Wisconsin, directed by "Gloomy Glen" Thistlethwaite, looked as a serious contender for the conference championship. And for the first time in probably a quarter of a century little opposition was anticipated from the Maize and Blue machine of Michigan.

It was a powerful and alert Badger squad that ran rough shod to crush Knute Rockne's eleven, 22 to 6 Saturday and Sunday it was touted as the best flash since 1912 when Wisconsin last won a big ten championship on the gridiron. It was a battle of "shock troops" against "shock troops," the Badgers being fortified at every position by at least three capable players.

Michigan's stunning upset was the first the Wolverines have suffered in an opening game since 1888. With Indiana invading Ann Arbor Saturday, Coach Tad Weman promised a drastic shakeup, transferring stars of the juniors varsity to the main lineup.

Who Said He Had a Bum Pin?

Here's Babe Ruth having that injured leg rubbed down by "Doc" Woods, Yankee baseball club trainer. The Babe limped around on the pin for the first couple games but it apparently has not been affecting his stance at the plate. His hitting was a feature in the first two games of the series and of course he doesn't have to run fast when someone hits a homerun every so often to permit him to score.

Yanks Have Chance To Set New Series Record

Sherdel Will Take Up Burden in Attempt to Stop Yankee Sluggers

St. Louis—(AP)—Riding high on the crest of a winning wave brought over from the last world series, the New York Yankees came to their fourth game of the 1928 series Monday, needing but one victory to make them baseball immortals.

If the New Yorkers can stop the St. Louis Cardinals once more, as they have halted them three times since last Thursday they will carve a new record in the archives of the Pittsburgh Pirates in four straight games last year but this feat had been performed before by the Boston Braves as far back as 1914. No team has won two world series without wasting a motion.

The American leaguers in making it three straight over the national league champions have already made one record in this series by winning seven successive world series contests.

The Cardinals have been forced back to their last line of defense and can not retreat farther. The Cardinals are not yet removed from the picture for they have a chance to win the series by taking four straight games, a good trick if they can do it. All the more honor would follow such a baseball miracle for it never has been done.

Lawrence college has already won an exceedingly hard fought match from John Strange, a freshman. Hanson won the match in straight sets although Strange carried the first set through 16 games before he succumbed, 7-5.

Thirty men entered the tournament and five rounds were necessary to determine the champion. Hanson won his way into the finals by victories over Babcock, Clausner, Miles, and Hunt. Strange, over Siegel, Wells, Evans, and Elmer, to enter the last round.

In the semi-finals, Strange defeated Ellis, a veteran of last year's team, in straight sets 6-3, 8-6. Hanson overcame early leads in both sets to win from Hunt, a freshman, 6-4, 6-2.

Hanson depended almost entirely upon his slashing drives which he placed consistently upon Strange's base line. Strange excelled his opponent in service and used a clever attack of drives mixed with short, sharp, and quick. Hanson's superiority which probably turned the tide of the battle in his favor was his net play. Hanson won the second set 6-2.

High school harriers in state meet, Nov. 9. The high school cross country championship of Wisconsin is at stake in the sixteenth annual Milwaukee Normal cross country run over a two and a quarter mile course Nov. 9.

Eight high schools competed in this event last year. Folsom of Milwaukee East set the present record in 21 minutes 15 seconds in 1926. Milwaukee East won last year with a score of 25 points.

All schools desiring to compete must have their eligibility blanks in the hands of P. F. Neversman, Marinette, secretary of the Wisconsin Inter-scholastic association, not later than Nov. 1. Competitors and coaches will be entertained at the Milwaukee White-water football game the same day.

LAKE FOREST LOSES TO CHICAGO, 3 AND 0

Chicago—After tearing Wyoming to shreds and piling up 47 points in the daylight the University of Chicago's Maroons were too tired to quarrel with Lake Forest college in the dark and contented themselves with kicking a field goal out of the "middle of the night." The score was 3 to 0, Chicago counting on a place kick by Mendenhall, stellar halfback, in the final frame. Coach Staggs evidently wanted the game with Lake Forest badly and sent in many of his first string men. The entire varsity backfield was used during the third period.

Lake Forest plays Lawrence in the Vikings next home game, Saturday, Oct. 20.

GIANTS WIN FROM GREEN BAY PACKERS

Kotal Runs 40 Yards to N. Y. Five Yard Line but Bays Fail

Green Bay—(AP)—In a close, hard fought game, the New York Giants of the National Professional Football league, defeated the Green Bay Packers 6 to 0 here Sunday before a crowd of 9,000.

The Giants scored in the third quarter on a triple pass, Wilson to McBride to Caldwell, which brought the ball to the one yard line. The Packers held the Giants for two downs but on the third try Caldwell, former Yale halfback, carried the ball off tackle for a touchdown. McBride's attempt to kick goal was blocked.

In the second quarter a 40 yard run by Kotal of the Packers carried the ball to the Giants' five yard line but Green Bay failed in four attempts to put it over and lost the ball about 2 inches from the goal line.

In the third quarter the Packers also threatened with passes and end runs, and in the fourth quarter lost the play most of the time on New York's territory.

SPEED WON HIM JOB. Because he was the second fastest man on the Minnesota squad, Bronko Nagurski was made over from a tackle into a fullback by Coach Spears.

YANKS WERENT SO BAD. The more thought that is given to the victory of the New York Yankees in the American League pennant race, the more credit must be given to the team and its manager.

There never was a gamier ball club than the one which staggered in, lame and disabled, ahead of the Philadelphia Athletics.

The Yanks of 1927, after running away with the league championship and drubbing the Pittsburgh Pirates in the world series, were regarded as one of the greatest teams of all times. The Yanks of 1928, because of the challenge offered them in the last quarter of the race, were not regarded so highly.

Should have won more. But the Yanks won 110 games in 1927 and they won 100 games this season. Herb Pennock was out of the game for six weeks and if he had been in service he might have won six more games.

Teams Fumble Often When Within Scoring Distance

"Stonewall" Line Fails to Hold Out Smaller Fondy Players

Coach Joseph Shields will probably give each one of his football men bushel baskets to catch with during the next week of practice because of the poor showing they made against the Fond du Lac eleven Saturday at Fond du Lac when they battled to a scoreless tie. Both teams were within scoring distance several times but in the critical moments they would fumble the ball.

It looks as though Shields has made a punter out of Popp, "The Terror" captain for whenever the team was in dangerous territory Popp would back the oval high and far into opponents' territory. Although several were blocked or fumbled Fond du Lac could not pierce the Appleton line for a touchdown. With the punting problem out of the way Coach Shields will begin to expect more of his heavy eleven.

Amid all the fumbling Schaefer played the stellar game for Appleton. It seems that some Fondy player got Jake peeved in the first quarter and he took his punishment out on the whole team. Reetz and Rankin also were stellar players in the front line while Berg who was playing quarter handled the position in fine shape. His resourcefulness at critical times was a big factor in holding Fondy from touchdowns.

Schmidt who played fullback for Fond du Lac was the outstanding player for his team carrying the ball for gains of 20 and 30 yards many times. Kennedy and Pochay, Schmidt's sidekicks also played good ball.

The so-called Appleton "stonewall" line was not up to snuff in the least, for the small Fondy eleven tore holes in it at will and especially during the punting formation the heavyweights would let there opponents rush in and block the punt.

During the last quarter Appleton staged a diving pass attacked which netted 40 yards but their chances for scoring were ruined when they were penalized 15 yards for holding. During the first quarter they had a chance to score but fumbled the ball.

Fond du Lac had several chances to score during the first period but the "Terror" line held and just before the half Fondy was marching toward the Appleton goal but the end of the half spoiled their chances. In the third quarter the Red and White came within three yards of the goal line but fumbled and the ball was recovered by an Appleton player.

In the final quarter the ball was not within 20 yards of either goal.

GETS TWO HOLES IN ONE AND BOTH ON SAME HOLE

Richmond, Va.—(AP)—Two holes-in-one on the same hole on the same day is the way they play their golf here—sometimes.

A. J. McDonald, of Norfolk drove 115 yards to make No. 4 at the Greenwood course in one stroke and followed a short while later by Eddie O'Neill, of Richmond, who did it too.

"BUD" HOUSER GETS RING

The difference is just in the way that the fans have been educated. The Cardinals are regarded as a ball club that could have won with Bill Doakes handling the ball but New Yorkers have been taught to believe that McGraw is the Giant ball club.

It isn't that New Yorkers have an inbred reverence for management, because Huggins never has been given credit for what he has done with the Yankees. He is a great manager but he doesn't want the credit for being one.

Connie Mack knows the situation on the Yankee ball club and it was a real tribute from a baseball man when the veteran manager of the Athletics wined to Huggins: "My congratulations. Your part was a big factor in winning the American League pennant and it's time that you should receive the full credit due you. Hoping and wishing you a world championship as well."

BADGERS REST AND PREP FOR PURDUE

Play "A" and "B" Games Next Weekend With Dakota Aggies, Cornell

Madison—Battered and bruised, but suffering no serious injuries, the Wisconsin football squad that surprised the country with a decisive victory over Notre Dame Saturday turned its attention upon the conference season. Although the Badgers are slated to meet the North Dakota Aggies and Cornell college here in a double header this week, Thistlethwaite is now pointing his men for the Purdue game at Lafayette, Oct. 20.

Coach Thistlethwaite's boys surprised the most optimistic Wisconsin fans when they upset the Irish by the one-sided score of 22 to 6. This Cardinal team can not be called an eleven for there were more than two dozen men called upon to halt the clever running and passing attack of the Rockne aggregation.

It was the defensive play of the Badgers, together with a scoring punch that spelled victory for the Western conference whose teams have been having difficulty with Notre Dame for years. Wisconsin uncorked the plays that netted touchdowns when within striking distance of the invaders' goal. The one Notre Dame tally came after a beautiful march down the field by means of short end runs and forward passes; the remainder of the contest a stubborn Cardinal line made the Rockne running game look bad.

There were other bright spots in the Badgers' work. The tackling was vicious and the blocking in the open field beautiful to behold. Thistlethwaite's boys were ball hawks, blocking kicks, picking up fumbles and playing on their toes throughout. The Wisconsin running attack did not look strong, but their over-head attack was effective. Two of the touchdowns were made on pass plays.

The Cardinal team is not a team of stars. No one shone in the opening game but most all of the men used against the Irish looked good considering that they were in their first game of the year and facing a strong opponent. All of the new linemen played good ball. Milo Lubratovich, the giant Duluth tackle, Augie Backus and Joe Kresky, guards and "Haiter" Kestler came through in fine style, while Cliff Conroy played a fine game at center.

The sophomore backs at times showed a lack of experience but on the whole they looked good. Sam Behr and Bill Lusby took care of the kicking in a satisfactory manner and their punts of Saturday indicated that the Badgers will not have the handicap of erratic punting that they could Smith and Bartholomew exhibited some real ability, while the veterans Rose, Cuisinier and Rebolz appear to be set for a good year.

"SWED" JOHNSTON STILL GETTING OFF HIS PUNTS

Milwaukee—Coach Percy Clapp's crippled football battalion from Milwaukee, Wis., sprung a real surprise Saturday afternoon in squeezing out a 13-12 win from the Marquette university freshmen at the Normal field.

Normal showed no evidence of a makeshift lineup. The front wall was, for the most part, powerful, with the backfield equally strong. Coach Bob Deming's team, with a lack of organization, especially in the starting quarter.

The teams alternated in scoring. Normal crossing the goal line in the first and third quarters and Marquette in the second and fourth quarters.

Brousseau, Marquette left half, and Van Horn, Normal left half, juggled the ball superbly. Van Horn also punted but was eclipsed in that department by Johnston, Appleton, a Blue and Gold yearling, who got off boots of 50 and 55 yards consistently, and one of 60 yards. Klaus, right half and acting captain for the Marquette frosh, and Sheehan of Normal, also made large gains.

COACHES SON STARTS IN FIRST BIG GAME

Cleveland, O.—The son of a famous football coach proved the hero in his first varsity game for Case here, the same school his daddy once coached.

Bill Scott, who weighs but 145 pounds, drop-kicked the three points that gave Case a 3-0 victory in its opening game. He is the son of the late Len Scott, who coached at Case and Alabama before his death.

Young Scott shows promise of becoming a good football player. He seems to have plenty of life and an ability to key the other players up. He drop-kicks nicely and is fast and Coach Bob Fletcher says he knows how to use his head. And that's a valuable asset!

Mexico City—Bert Colma out-pointed Tommy White (12) for mid-dleweight championship of Mexico.

Around The Sport World

The Athletics won 91 games in 1927 and won 98 this season. There's a difference of seven games.

There was no organized cheering for Bill McKechnie when his Cardinals survived a tough fight in the National League.

If the Giants had won the pennant, the entire credit would have been given to McGraw.

The difference is just in the way that the fans have been educated. The Cardinals are regarded as a ball club that could have won with Bill Doakes handling the ball but New Yorkers have been taught to believe that McGraw is the Giant ball club.

It isn't that New Yorkers have an inbred reverence for management, because Huggins never has been given credit for what he has done with the Yankees. He is a great manager but he doesn't want the credit for being one.

Deil Carpenter, Rockford, Ill., checker champion of Iowa, will arrive in Appleton on Monday, Oct. 22, to conduct a series of checker demonstrations and to conduct tournaments in chess and checkers, according to word received by John Goodrich, office secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Carpenter will stage the exhibition and tournament in the men's department of the Y. M. C. A. It is expected several Appleton checkers "sharks" will endeavor to trim the Iowa "wizard," as he is called there, according to Mr. Goodrich.

DAN CUPID IS WORKING MUCH HARDER THIS YEAR

Dan Cupid, probably aided by the fact that he finds good hunting because this happens to be leap year, has managed to pile up a big lead during the first nine months of 1928 in the number of marriage licenses issued as compared with the same period in 1927, according to records at the office of John E. Hantschel, county clerk. The records indicate that in the first nine months of this year 253 licenses were issued as compared with 209 in the same period last year. In September this year there were 45 licenses issued as compared with 28 in the same month last year.

A Hurricane Met a House

Seized by the destroying hand of the hurricane as though it were a mere matchbox, this house was lifted off its foundation at Lake Worth, Fla., and dropped upon two other dwellings. It was one of the freaks of the recent storm that left thousands homeless and wrought millions of dollars property damage.

Efforts are being made to have the Channel Islands and the Isle of Man connected with Europe by telephone.

Hail's hurricane is believed to have damaged less than one-twelfth of the coffee crop, so important to that island.

INDEPENDENT IN SENATOR RACE HAS "OUTSIDE" CHANCE

If La Follette Is Ousted from Ballot, Markham May Be Elected

Madison—(P)—State Senator William H. Markham, Horicon, independent candidate for United States Senator, in opposition to Gen. R. M. LaFollette and candidate M. K. Reilly, Fond du Lac, has an "outside chance" of going to Washington, outside of the chances that come and go at the ballot boxes.

He runs the regular chances of every candidate. But should John D. Pierce, who is now under way against the Progressive senatorial candidate result in a definite charge against S. A. LaFollette and should this charge be so proved, that he is ousted from his nomination, State Sen. Markham would be the only Republican in the race.

"LaFollette has declared himself, after the primary in which he was nominated as a Republican, as opposed to the Republican nomination for president and governor, as out of line with the party," Sen. Markham said after filing his candidacy. "I will therefore campaign as the Republican independent candidate to keep the Republican party in Wisconsin, Republican in fact as well as in name. We should have done with such candidacies under one banner, and another afterwards."

Mr. Markham's chances of election were admittedly graced or dimmed by withdrawal of Mr. Reilly or his decision to remain in the contest. His withdrawal was expected to swing many Democratic votes on the Senator. Announcement of his course was expected from Mr. Reilly Monday.

Methods of canvassing and other things will be discussed. E. J. Harwood will act as toastmaster of the affair, and B. J. Rohan, general chairman of the drive will preside.

Mr. Markham predicted his candidacy on statements that he was "finally yielding to the demand of former friends," that he is a man grown from a farm boy, that he worked his way through the University of Minnesota, that he is "washed" by the early construction of the St. Lawrence waterway, wants the protection of Republican principles and policies for Wisconsin's great dairy and industrial domains, and that his record is good backing.

His candidacy statement urged that Wisconsin be "freed of the class hatreds nurtured by demagogues and divorced of the corruption and spoils of those who have forgotten the ideals of Lincoln."

"The Republican party is greater," he said, "than the politicians who attempt to control it for their own purposes."

"My candidacy is the offering of a sacrifice on the altar of service to the people. Politician I am not, yet I am for the people."

KOHLER GIVES 11 TALKS THIS WEEK

Republican Nominee for Governor Will Visit 30 Badger Cities

Milwaukee—(P)—Walter J. Kohler, Republican nominee for governor, will visit 30 Wisconsin cities and make 11 talks and addresses this week, according to the state Republican headquarters here.

Starting at Sheboygan Monday night, Mr. Kohler will visit Sauk City, Spring Green, Elgin, Lodi, Janesville, Albia, North Freedom, Ladysburg and Baraboo Tuesday. He will talk at Sauk City and Reedsburg and make an address in Baraboo.

Wednesday, the candidate will go to LaVale, Wausau, Union Center, Hillsboro, Westby, Virgona, Mt. Sterling and Prairie du Chen, making an address at the latter city and in Virgona.

Thursday, Mr. Kohler's schedule calls for visits to Fennimore, Dodgeville for brief talks, Mt. Horeb, Verona, Sun Prairie and Lake Mills, where he will address the Men's club there.

Madison will be the overnight stop Friday, but the candidate will not speak there. However, on that day an address will be made at Monroe and a talk at Brodhead will be given. Stops are scheduled for Oregon, Belleville and New Glarus.

Two addresses, one at Columbus and the other at Watertown, are scheduled for Saturday.

LA CROSSE DOCTOR IS OUT FOR GOV. SMITH

Madison—(P)—The newly established Progressive Republican club has given out a statement from Dr. A. Gunderson, LaCrosse, noted physician and member of the University of Wisconsin board of regents supporting the stand of Sen. J. J. Blaine opposing Herbert Hoover for President.

"It would be sheer hypocrisy for any LaFollette progressive, whether he be leader or individual voter, to stuff himself by supporting a Republican leadership that represents all that we believed to be bad," said the statement from the Progressive doctor.

His statement continued in the same tone, with a strong endorsement of Governor Smith of New York for president.

Tourist traffic in Ireland is markedly on the increase.

The MAYTAG Roller Water Remover A New and Better Way of Wringing

IF YOU were to pass a clothes-pin between the rolls of the Maytag Roller Water Remover, it would appear as in the illustration above. In like manner, this large, soft, upper roll hugs the lumps, folds and seams in the clothes, reaches down into the low spots, and leaves no wet places to retard drying on the line. Buttons, snaps or ornaments go through safely.

Exhaustive experiments convinced The Maytag Company that a soft top roll, working against a hard bottom roll, creates more effective wringing action than two soft rolls or two hard rolls. The Roller Water Remover, incorporating this method, is exclusively owned and controlled by The Maytag Company. It permits perfect wringing with less time and effort than ever before.

For a Trial Washing The Maytag won world leadership by trial washings in the home. Telephone for a Maytag before next washday. Experience the advantage of the cast-aluminum tub and gyrafoam action. See the Maytag do a washing in an hour without hand-rubbing anything. If it doesn't sell itself, don't keep it.

Maytag Aluminum Washer

Maytag dealers everywhere follow the standardized rule of sending a Maytag to a home to do a week's washing free, and without obligation of any kind. This is the way all Maytag Aluminum Washers are sold. The Maytag must sell itself solely upon its performance in the home. It must wash everything to your entire satisfaction. Must wash everything quicker, easier and cleaner than other washers. Must wash everything—even collars, cuffs and wristbands, without hand-rubbing. Must prove to you, in your own home, that it is the most helpful home-laundrying unit you have ever seen or used.

Our Presidents

In the campaign of 1880, James A. Garfield, an Ohio boy whose first work in life had been that of a canal boy, was elected president. Garfield was a Republican. He had been in office but a few months when Charles J. Guiteau, a disappointed office-seeker, shot and killed him. Vice President Chester A. Arthur succeeded to office.

By REA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1922-23.

Arthur's administration was prosperous. The South had recovered remarkably from the effects of the war. Iron mining began its tremendous growth.

Immigrants poured into America. An exposition held in New Orleans in 1884 showed the great progress the South had been making.

The twenty-four year succession of Republican presidents was broken in 1884 when Grover Cleveland, Democrat, was elected over James G. Blaine. It was rumored Blaine was a Catholic and the country was torn by the issue of religion. The cry, "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion," was used against Blaine. Cleveland, then governor of New York, was chosen.

Desert Full Of Crawling Actors, Movie Man Finds

Hollywood, Calif.—(AP)—There are thousands of movie extras in Hollywood, but there are millions of them crawling around on the hot sands of the Mojave desert a few hours' ride from the studios.

To keep track of the human extras waiting for work in Hollywood the studios maintain a central casting bureau which has all their telephone numbers. Keeping track of all the bugs and bats and reptiles whose residence is this desert so handy to Hollywood is the job of Jack Allman, who calls himself "curator of reptiles."

Allman knows where to find anything the casting director wants on short notice, if it lives in the desert. Just as Central Casting knows where to find a bearded man six feet high or a beautiful blond parachute jumper.

The desert is a big place, and most people might find it difficult to locate even an ordinary rattlesnake on short notice. Allman, however, has been picking things

LIGHT EXPERTS OF WORLD VISIT U. S.

Consider Latest Practical and Scientific Developments in Their Field

Washington.—(AP)—Experts on illumination from the leading nations of the world are spending most of next month in the United States, considering the latest practical and scientific developments in their field.

Organized as an International Illumination Congress, under the auspices of the United States national committee of the International Commission of Illumination and the Illuminating Engineering Society, the assembly will meet in New York for various parts of America, Austria, Belgium, France, Germany, Great Britain, Holland, Italy, Japan and Switzerland.

After a tour which will enable them to observe lighting practices in New York and vicinity, Boston, Washington, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Niagara Falls, Toronto and, if possible, other cities they will attend the annual meeting of the engineering society at Toronto, September 17-20, and sessions of the international commission at Saranac, N. Y., September 22-23.

A number of important technical and scientific papers are to be read at the Toronto convention, which will be the society's second meeting in Canada in 22 years. At the Saranac meeting the commission will consider world-wide problems as automobile headlights, glare, lighting for aviation, home, school, factory, street and window lighting, daylight illumination and the status of lighting education.

LIQUOR LICENSE FUND PUZZLES CITY FATHERS

New Britain, Conn.—(AP)—This city has a fund that waits distribution, but no one knows how it can be done.

The money consists of balances on liquor license fees theoretically due holders of such licenses who were forced out of business by the eighteenth amendment in 1919 before the term of their licenses had expired by limitation.

The fund aggregates $25,375 plus interest. No saloon keeper applied for a rebate and there was no way in which the city could voluntarily return the money. Now it is proposed to use the money to aid the unemployed.

A SUNSET DIVORCE
Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—Mrs. Elizabeth Jones of White Plains, who mothered nine children to maturity in 51 years of married life, has obtained a divorce from her husband on her charge of infidelity. The action was not contested, although the defendant was represented by counsel.

FRANCE STAGGERS UNDER CASCADE OF STABILIZED FRANCS

Tax Collectors Burdened Counting Money and Shipping It to Paris

BY SAVINGTON CRAWFORD
Paris.—(AP)—A mounting torrent of silver coins, disgorged from the proverbial woolen stocking of the French peasant as a result of the franc's stabilization, continues to clog the nation's financial machinery.

The tax collectors find it impossible to keep ahead of the tide, and their task of counting and shipping the money to Paris has become a tremendous burden. The tax department of the finance ministry is overwhelmed by the success of stabilization.

Hundreds of thousands of silver francs and half-franc pieces, worth 20c and 10c before the war, are piling up on the counters of provincial offices. The French peasant has decided that half the face value of his money is better than nothing.

In come the peasants crowding the collector's office. The money is heaped on the counter from acre-out, haley and profound stocks, purses, tin grocery boxes, wooden kegs and linen sacks. There are cardboard boxes, knotted handkerchiefs and a dozen other conveyances used by peasants who have never learned to trust banks.

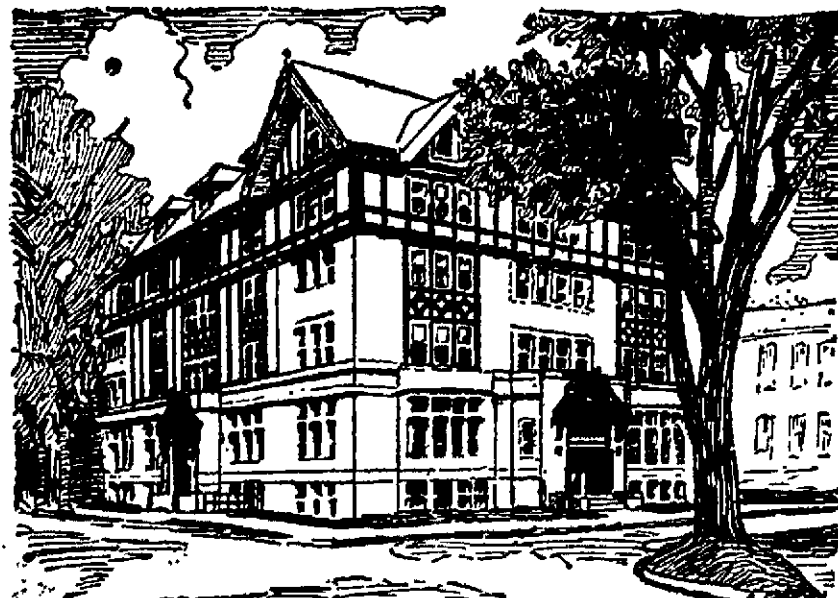

Here is a suspicious market woman with a sack containing 3,000 tiny half-franc pieces. It must be counted, sorted, stacked and exchanged for paper money. The old woman does not miss a single movement. She counts the count and the

IDEAL FACILITIES

THE GYM—

Find out the hour that suits you best and attend a class regularly. If you like to play, try basketball, indoor baseball, volley ball, or handball. If you box or wrestle, you will find worthy opponents here. We have ample equipment for both light and strenuous exercise.

HANDBALL—

Use our modern four-wall court to develop your skill, speed, and accuracy by this active game.

TENNIS—

Two of the best courts in town adjoin our building. Tournaments and other keen competition. Handy to the locker room.

GOLF—

When the weather is bad, and the golf course under two feet of snow, keep your form true by practicing on our indoor tee.

SWIMMING—

Summer and winter, the water is always fine in the pool. Use it everyday. Nothing so tonic as a plunge into clean tempered water. Arrange to join our classes for instruction in Swimming, Diving, and Life Saving. It's as easy to swim as it is to walk.

SHOWERS—

A dozen showers at your service. Take them warm and then cold and see how the skin brightens and glows. They make you feel like a new man.
